BIOGRAPHY:

Reginald Heber Latta was named after the British hymn writer, Reginald Heber (1783-1826), who wrote the hymn "Holy Holy Holy," as listed on page 50 of the "Beginners Choir Songbook" which belonged to my grandmother, Effie (Schaub) Latta.

Jan Edith Latta wrote in 1999, "Uncle Doc (Allen Latta) and his wife Mary were divorced about the time Heber was through college and maybe medical school. Heber started practice in Graysville, Ohio. Uncle Doc moved to Caldwell, Ohio and started a new practice. Heber and his mother and Heber's different wives lived in the house Uncle Doc built, and his office was next door in a small building.

[A note in a volume belonging to the Monroe County Genealogical Society, p. 417, says regarding Graysville, "In the 1940's the population dropped to 170. At that time the town had one physician, Dr. Latta, and two stores were still in operation."]

RESIDENCES: 320 Mansion Dr.; Alexandria, VA 22302

PUBLIC_SERVICE: Deputy Chief of Protocol for 8 years; Chairman, Special Fine Arts Committee, Department of State; Curator of the White House

BIOGRAPHY:

Clement Ellis Conger was written up in "The Sunday Courier and Press," of Evansville, IN on 1 Mar 1970 by Dorothy McCardle, as follows:

Together President and Mrs. Nixon twisted the arm of Clement E. Conger to persuade him to take on a White House Americana Project comparable to the one he heads at the State Department.

Conger had three other job offers. A top U.S. Museum was trying to draft him. The Bicentennial Commission wanted him as a commissioner. The Secretary of State dangled an ambassadorship.

Conger, who now relinquishes his job as Deputy Chief of Protocol, finally decided to accede to the President and Mrs. Nixon's wishes for two reasons:

"The challenge at the White House is terrific," says Conger, "I shall do my best."

His second reason is that the White House job leaves him time to continue with the State Department Americana Project ... his first love.

Clem Conger has won a world-wide reputation as a antiques sleuth. He has tracked down more china, silver, paintings and furnishings from America's beginnings than most men ever see in a lifetime. And he is determined to get the best of America's cultural heritage for the two spots in Washington where it will be displayed in an international showcase -- the White House and the State Department.

He won't discuss just what he will do at the White House. It has been learned from other sources that a top reason he was asked to move his talents there is because of wear and tear on the public rooms by the hundreds of tourists who go through them daily and scores of guests entertained there nightly.

Conger is expected to stockpile a substitute collection of Americana at the White House which will be as historic as anything that has to be replaced or repaired.

The idea got started last November when President Nixon attended the Governor's

6 February 2017

Conference at the State Department. For the first time, the president took in the full significance of what Conger and his special fine arts committee have done to give an authentic historic setting to the rooms in which the Secretary of State entertains the heads of foreign governments. The President was astounded as he inspected various items of the five million dollar collection of American antiques on view in the State Department's hospitality suite.

"This is one of the most important projects of its kind in the American government," the President told Conger. Then he added, "Clem, could you help us over at the White House?" Conger did not take this at face value until he was summoned for a talk with the First Lady.

When he spoke of other job offers, he was assured that he was much too valuable at the State Department and could be, too, at the White House, for him to leave. He did not want to leave anyway.

An antique desk, designed and used by Thomas Jefferson, illustrates the fast action and sleuthing ability of Conger. He heard about the desk at a party in the Thomas Jefferson Room at the State Department. He didn't let one day go by before he headed for Philadelphia, where the desk was in private hands. He interviewed George Holcombe Parsons, a wealthy Philadelphian, who told him he planned to give the desk to a museum in Philadelphia. Conger talked him out of it. He gave Parsons statistics of the number of presidents, prime ministers, kings and queens who would see that desk if it was at the State Department.

That's where the desk is right now, on loan, it may be given later as a permanent fixture. The top of the desk lifts up into an architect's drafting board. Jefferson designed it this way because he liked to stand up when he wrote. The "great penman" of his day drafted the Declaration of Independence on this desk.

Conger's ability has been listed as "having a practiced eye, a discriminating taste, and an appreciation for excellence -- things found in a rug merchant, a horse trader and a Florentine aristocrat -- rolled into one.

He served in the US Army in WWII and after the war served as a Foreign Service Officer in the State Department. By the 1960's he had advanced to the position of Curator of the Diplomatic Reception Room of the State Department. His work caught the eye of Mrs. Richard (Pat) Nixon, wife of President Nixon, in 1970 and she asked Clement to be the White House Curator. He diplomatically accepted, but only on a half-time basis, retaining his position in the State Dept.

Clement's speciality was locating pieces of furniture that once were in the White House or State Dept. and getting people to donate them to the federal government for display in the White House or elsewhere. Clement continued in his role as White House Curator until 1986 when Mrs. Ronald (Nancy) Reagan, wife of President Reagan, had him fired for not showing "proper deference" to her. Clement was only one of perhaps 10 persons around the White House that Mrs. Reagan had fired for the same "offense" in the 1983-1991 period.

One story told was when Michail and Riasa Gorbachov visited Washington, DC in 1987, Riasa requested a tour of the White House. Nancy Reagan and the new Assistant White House Curator hosted the tour. Riasa Gorbahov asked a lot of questions about the White House and it's furnishings. Mrs. Reagan couldn't answer half of the questions and the new Asst. Curator didn't do much better. The snide comment made by some State Department officials was that if Clement Conger were on the tour he could have answered all of the questions off the top of his head.

Clement Conger retire from the State Department in the early 1990's and went to work as a Consultant for Sothby's Auction House in New York City.

Clement was an active subscriber to the "Conger Confab" newsletter and resided in Arlington, VA.

RESEARCHER: Clement Ellis Conger corresponded with Charles Leslie Conger about his study of the Conger family. Clement Conger lived in the Washington, DC area. It was Clement who arranged the donation of the Charles Leslie Conger's papers to the Rare Book Room of the Library of Congress. Many articles about the career of Clement Ellis Conger appear in both volumes of "Conger Family of America" and in issue of the "Conger Confab."

OBITUARY: Curator Clement E. Conger Dies at 91; Beautified Nation's Diplomatic Spaces, By Adam Bernstein, Washington Post Staff Writer, Monday, January 12, 2004; Page B04

Clement E. Conger, 91, the State Department curator who transformed the "motel modern" look of its diplomatic reception rooms into a showcase for early American craftsmanship, died Jan. 11 at a hospital in Delray Beach, Fla. He had pneumonia.

Mr. Conger's career, which married the worlds of diplomacy, politics and fine arts, was chronicled extensively in print. Seemingly every Chippendale table, every Gilbert Stuart portrait, every Duncan Phyfe cabinet he obtained became cause for a story.

He raised millions of dollars to refurnish State Department rooms for visiting dignitaries and then did the same at the White House and Blair House, the presidential guesthouse.

Although Mr. Conger was long enamored of antiques and fine art, he was a bit of an anomaly in his high-profile job.

A tall, chatty, energetic Shenandoah Valley native with roots in Colonial Virginia, he held no college degree in decorative arts, never worked in a museum and had no scholarly record.

His entry into curating, in the early 1960s, was largely accidental. He was at the State Department helping coordinate visits by foreign officials when the wife of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter approached him worriedly about additions that had been made to the State Department building. She was distressed to see the new hospitality suite looking so sterile. According to Mr. Conger, she "burst into tears," knowing that she soon had to entertain the Queen of Greece there.

He fixed the problem with three borrowed French paintings and then got to work forming a committee of wealthy citizens with a healthy interest in history and antiques.

He sent letters nationwide explaining the benefits of lending beautiful objects to the State Department: "national pride, family pride and tax deductibility."

On weekends, he visited auction houses and private estates for vintage Americana while working full time during the week as an assistant to top arms-control officials.

Over the years, he overhauled more than 15 main reception rooms as well as the Treaty Room suite and the offices of the secretary and deputy secretary of state.

The furnishings are now valued at more than $100 million, said Pat Heflin, his former assistant.

The Nixons admired his work and invited him to be the White House curator. Curating became his main job, and he divided his time between the executive mansion and the State Department.

He raised millions to renovate much of the White House, including the Red, Green and Blue rooms.

In 1986, first lady Nancy Reagan reportedly dismissed Mr. Conger because of artistic differences and replaced him with a Reagan friend, White House chief usher Rex Scouten.

Mr. Conger retired from the State Department in 1992 and then spent two years doing consulting work at Christie's auction house.

Clement Ellis Conger was born in Harrisonburg, Va., where his father was a doctor. He was a graduate of Strayer College and attended George Washington University.

Early on, he worked in Washington as an office manager and correspondent for the Chicago Tribune and office manager for U.S. Rubber Co.

During World War II, he served in the Army and became assistant secretary for the United States and British combined chiefs of staff.

He joined the State Department after the war and became deputy chief of protocol in the late 1950s. He helped oversee visits by foreign officials, among them the shah of Iran, Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, French President Charles de Gaulle and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Although he began curatorial work as a volunteer, he attacked the job with vigor. He earned the nickname "the Grand Acquisitor" for his singular pursuit of certain objects.

At a State Department party, he heard about a man in Philadelphia selling a desk once used by Thomas Jefferson. He rushed that day to meet the owner and dissuaded him from selling the desk to a museum. Giving it to the State Department, he explained, would mean that it would be seen by presidents, prime ministers, kings and queens.

The job also had its foibles.

"Marshall Field V's wife didn't like antiques," he said in 1972, referring to the Chicago newspaper publisher. "But he couldn't stop collecting them, so he lent them to us. But a funny thing happened. He changed wives, and his new wife just loves antiques. So the other week, all the antiques he had lent us went to their home."

Mr. Conger, a member of the Senior Executive Service, was a recipient of the State Department's Distinguished Service Award and the Distinguished Service Medal.

In 1992, Winterthur, the Delaware-based museum of American decorative arts, gave him the Henry Francis DuPont Award for distinguished contribution to the American arts.

He was a former chairman of the Virginia Trust for Historic Preservation and a former vestryman and senior warden at Episcopal Christ Church in Alexandria.

A longtime Alexandria resident, he lived briefly in Arlington before moving to Delray Beach in 2002.

Survivors include his wife of 55 years, Lianne Hopkins Conger of Delray Beach; three children, William Conger of Maurertown, Va., Jay Conger of Manhattan Beach, Calif., and Shelley Conger of Sherman Oaks, Calif.; and two grandchildren.

BIOGRAPHY: APPRECIATION: Clement Conger, Furnishing History, By Patricia Dane Rogers, Special to The Washington Post, Thursday, January 15, 2004; Page H01

A visit to Clement Conger's Georgian-style home on Alexandria's Mansion Drive revealed a lot about the man who led a lifelong crusade to elevate the Diplomatic Reception Rooms at the State Department, the White House and Blair House to a level of elegance and authenticity that would do them proud.

"After all," he told me in a 1975 interview for Architectural Digest, "kings, queens and prime ministers should see something beside planes and airports when they come to Washington."

His own formal living room -- Oriental rug, grand piano crowded with photographs and invitations, a tall Chippendale-style tea table and a leggy blue damask camel-back sofa -- clearly reflected the period look this purist sought for those grander venues: porcelain owned by the Washingtons and Mr. Jefferson (as Conger inevitably referred to him); silver made by Paul Revere; chairs once owned by Francis Scott Key. All were pieces that bespoke grace, beauty and the nation's history.

His own home also held a clue to his enduring disapproval when history was ignored, such as the wall-to-wall carpet installed in the private quarters of the White House during the Reagan years. The yellow Oval Room on the second floor, he said, was "an extremely beautiful room," decorated by Jacqueline Kennedy with fine French antiques, which the Nixons augmented with "even finer furnishings" appropriate to the Federal era.

"Mrs. Reagan and her decorator, Ted Graber -- who knew nothing about American period houses -- turned the Yellow Room and most of the second floor into 'California rooms,' " Conger wrote to me in 1992. "They replaced many antiques with 20th-century overstuffed sofas, which are not correct for the room, and, as everybody knows, are too low and hard to get out of."

Conger, who died Sunday in Florida at age 91, began his work to transform the State Department's motel-modern Diplomatic Reception Rooms during the Kennedy administration, and served as curator there until 1992. His work drew the attention of the Nixons, who tapped him to add the White House curatorship to his duties in 1970. He served in that capacity until 1986, when the Reagans replaced him, rather unceremoniously, with chief usher Rex Scouten. From 1970 to 1992, he was also curator of Blair House, the president's guest house, and worked with then-chief of protocol Selwa "Lucky" Roosevelt to totally refurbish it.

Once dubbed the "Grand Acquisitor" by the Wall Street Journal, Conger was legendary for his ability to ferret out, bargain for and solicit museum-quality 18th- and early-19th-century cabinetry, porcelain, rugs, paintings and silver that now adorn the Diplomatic Reception Rooms as well as the offices of the Secretary of State -- a collection of nearly 5,000 pieces currently valued at more than $100 million.

His work also gave him a unique perch from which to watch the parade of first families who made their home in the White House. "I probably have more of a bird's-eye view of what can happen with changes of administration than anyone," he said in an interview with me seven years after he'd left the White House.

He particularly admired Pat Nixon, "who really completed what Mrs. Kennedy started at the White House in the public rooms as well as the private quarters." According to Conger, he and the first lady shared a fondness for coconut cake with lemon filling as well as fine antiques. "She would give a birthday lunch for me and I would give one for her and we always had this cake."

He recalled how his work at the State Department first caught her husband's eye. "President Nixon had seen what I had done there," he said in one of our many conversations over the years. "One day, I bumped into him in the lobby and he said, 'Would you take Pat up to the eighth floor and show her the Diplomatic Reception Rooms?' Then he joined us and we went through in a flash and the president turned to her and said 'What did I tell you? This place looks better than the White House.' And that's how I got to shuttle back and forth between the White House and the State Department for the next 16 years."

He admired the Fords and Carters as well and had high praise for the senior Bushes. "They and their decorator, Mark Hampton, returned some of the antiques the Reagans had banished."

The arrival of the Clintons -- and more specifically their cat Socks -- gave him cause for concern, which he expressed when I interviewed him about changes they might make to the White House. "Tell me," he asked, "does Chelsea's cat have claws? It does? Uh-oh. Amy Carter's cat scratched the legs of tables and chairs upstairs and down . . . . The danger that Chelsea's cat could do to chairs and settees worth tens and in some cases hundreds of thousands of dollars is irretrievable."

At State, his office was modest and crowded, filled with rolled-up rugs, tall case clocks, Pembroke tables and "always piles and piles of papers," said Gail F. Serfaty, Conger's longtime deputy curator and, as director of the Diplomatic Reception Rooms and curator of Blair House since '95, his successor. He had no formal training in antiques; in fact, he once described himself as an "advanced amateur." But he lectured coast to coast, brought in specialists and worked with classically inclined architects such as Edward Vason Jones of Albany, Ga., and Allan Greenberg of Washington, to create historically correct settings, especially at State, for the furnishings he acquired.

"He was a perfectionist. The extraordinary thing was not only his enthusiasm but his sense that it was possible to do the impossible," said Serfaty. "The State Department rooms were ugly and sterile, but he had the self-confidence to make things happen. He never claimed to be an expert himself, but he went to experts like Berry Tracy, curator of American Decorative Arts at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, great dealers like Harold Sack and great collectors. His optimism was extraordinary. He was able to bring out in people a sense of national pride." One of his greatest coups, she said, was "to acquire the Gilbert Stuart portrait of John Jay at auction and, of course, the Treaty of Paris desk, the desk on which the final Treaty of Paris was signed in 1783, ending the American Revolution."

In the early years, Serfaty, Conger and Pat Heflin -- then his personal secretary and now manager of development under Serfaty -- spent most weekends working on the State Department Americana project.

"He could be intimidating," Heflin recalls. "He had been a court stenographer, took impeccable shorthand, and he'd come out of meetings and dictate without a pause. He also had this old rat-a-tat-tat manual typewriter, and he'd always be banging out drafts."

On many of those weekends, said Serfaty, "we would also have small luncheons for people with great collections and he would ask them what they thought the rooms needed." He reasoned correctly, she says, "that most collectors overcollect, so he often tapped into their patriotic and family pride and they were thrilled to give. What I respected most," she said, "was his own love for the project. At State, all the furnishings were loaned or donated." He was proud that the rooms were open to the public, and that they hadn't cost taxpayers a cent.

As a fellow resident of Alexandria, I sometimes ran into Conger in less than formal circumstances. At the neighborhood Safeway one day a few years back, I noticed he was limping; he told me that too many years of walking on marble floors at State and the White House had hurt his feet. Another time, I was surprised to realize that the tall, somehow familiar man climbing out of the swimming pool at the Army Navy Country Club was none other than Conger; I had never seen him in anything but a dark blue suit and striped tie.

In a conversation after his death this week, Serfaty said she and Conger had stayed in touch. "We had a long chat on Christmas Eve," she said. He was planning to attend the "Becoming a Nation: Americana From the Diplomatic Reception Rooms," the traveling exhibit she organized and that is now in Palm Beach. "But then we learned that he had developed pneumonia and realized he wasn't going to make it. He always considered us a team," she said. "We were family."

Poems Written by Harry Allen Halliwell

"Odessa, Nebraska"

The merchants of our town
Are always on the climb,
And for their benefit
I give this little rhyme.

For coal and grocery needs
Patronize our local store
Low prices and good quality
Are established by Pat Moore.

Stop and chat with Cass!
But before you go,
Be sure the tank is filled
With Firechief Texaco.

If you, a shave or haircut
or wish advice so free,
Cnady, tobacco, or play some pool,
Come in and see Charlie.

For pump or irrigation work
To save your land from waste.
Economize with Conoco
And stop awhile with Case.

As for Blacksmith jobs,
Welding or regulating clocks,
Nothing is too large or too small
For repair by Hedger Fox.

At the railway station,
We find Mr. Rydberg there.
He will sell you a ticket
To Kearney or the world's fair.

Now don't forget the Friday night dances
Held down in the old town hall.
Also the thrilling games
Of twilight kitten ball.

Let's make our town a white spot
And overbridge the gap.
Let's make elaborate plans
To place Odessa on the map.

"A Soldier"

[Note: This poem, about a statue in their town they wanted to tear down for a road, was printed in the paper. As a result of this poem the statue stood and the road went around the statue.]

In the midst of our fair city
A stately monument rears
Its head above the crowd--
The memory of past years.
Fate rumors ill news bring,
Which bear cause to mark,
This statue must be moved,
To cemetery or to park.

'A great menace to traffic'
Many are quoted to say
'It's a hindrance to tourist,
Passing day by day'.

But to me it seems,
A sentinel at his beat.
Challenging each speeding traveler
Warning pedestrians on the street.

Here, let it stand forever!
Guardian of the way.
Until this beauty spot
Crumbles to ruin and decay.

"Another by Halliwell"

The Indians are gone,
So is the pioneer.
The homesteader passed away.
Dead is the forty-miner.

The longhorns have run their course.
They've disappeared with the buffalo.
Now, if you desire to glimpse old days,
Go see a wild west show.

No more are seen the cowboys.
Death took the gambling rover.
No longer the open saloon.
The six gun's bark is over.

The hitching rack is removed;
So is the livery stable.
The stage coach is no more,
Now news is carried by cable.

Friends depart as time flies.
Stores have changed their name.
New houses replace the old.
But Kearney remains the same.

"The Farm"

A swift south breeze,
Clouds flying by.
Perfect peace on the farm,
A rainbow in the sky.

A slight movement of the grass,
A rustle of green leaves.
The sound of a creaking windmill,
And the bawling of the beeves.

The clatter of a squirrel.
The bark of a hungry dog.
A cackle of a chicken.
And the squealing of the hog.

Sunshine everywhere....
Everything a charm.
No wonder city people
Move back to the farm.

"A Traveler"

Life is a winding road
Through a foreign land,
Over rugged rock and crag
Where we can scarcely stand.
At each intersection
We see another friend,
Who is content to follow
Until we reach the end.

Where the way is rough
And we meet despair,
Shall we then turn back
When we are almost there?
At the journey's terminal
We enter the Golden Town.
Climb the steps of the tower,
Rest and look down.

"Time"

Tick tock! Tick tock!
Years fly on
Tick tock! Tick tock!
Another moment gone

No wonder the young hate you,
And the old ones love you so;
You steal happiness from some,
Others content, watch it go.

To the happy you are swift
To the sad ever so slow.
Yet not matter what happens
Onward you go.

A life at every tick,
A death at every tock.
You watch a forest fade
And petrify to rock.

You copy this verse
And measure the rhyme.
Oh, immortal creature!
You are time.

"The Harvest"

Solitude breeds sunshine
To the awakening day;
It conquers every grief
And stores it safe away.
From a single grain of hope,
Carried long as loot,
A love has blossomed forth
Into a ruddy fruit.
So plant a pleasant thought
In everything you do;
For the joy you bring to others
Shall return to you.

MARRIAGE: Henthorn-Suppes Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Suppes, of Cameron, [OH], are announcing the marriage of their youngest daughter, Gail Hilda to Donald Henthorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Henthorn of Beallsville.

The single ring ceremony was performed at the home of Minister Elmer Taylor, at Plainview, on Saturday, February seventeenth at two o'clock.

The bride was attractive in a navy blue suit with blue and white accessories. She wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings, gift of the bridegroom, and chose a corsage of American Beauty roses to complete her ensemble. The tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue, and a penny in her shoe, was carried out by the bride.

The bride chose her sister, Mrs. Harvey Nething, of Hannibal, for her matron of honor. She was attired in a navy suit with black and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Harvey Nething, of Hannibal, brother-in-law of the bride, served the groom as best man.

A reception was held on Sunday at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families.

The newlyweds will make their home with the bride's parents for the present. Mr. Henthorn is employed as a carpenter with W.J. Johnston of Shadyside.

RESEARCHER: JoNelle Jean (Wagner) Linnaus was interested in family history and genealogy. She and her husband made visits to Monroe Co., OH and Washington, Co., PA in search of information about her ancestors. She shared information about the Conger and Atkinson families with Robert Guilinger.

OCCUPATION: school teacher, retired in 1985

RESIDENCES: Oakdale, NE; Stockton, CA; St. James, MO; Kimball, Dix, Sidney, Norfolk, NE; Tucson, AZ

RESIDENCES: As of Nov 1995, Vernon and JoNelle lived at: 2202 Elmers Lane; Norfolk, NE 68701.

CHURCH_AFFILIATION: Methodist

ORGANIZATIONS: JoNelle Jean (Wagner) Linnaus was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR). Her national number is 682746. She applied through the line of her grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth (Garner) Conger. Her Revolutionary War ancestor was John Garner of North Carolina. She has supplementals for Thomas Howell of North Carolina; Patrick Logan of North Carolina; John Hunter of Virginia; John Lynch of North Carolina; Andrew Spear of North Carolina and Robert Spear of North Carolina. She reported that others have become members based on David Conger (1740-1778), Charles Atkinson and Cornelius Atkinson.

BIOGRAPHY:

JoNelle Jean Wagner was born on 3 Aug 1932 in a farmhouse one mile south of Oakdale, Antelope county, NE, where her father had been born 32 years before. She grew up on this farm, enjoying the activities and neglecting the duties of the typical farm child of the 1930's and 40's. The family was composed of her father, Irven Edward Wagner, her mother, Josephine Conger Wagner, her brother, Irven Frederick Wagner and her sister, Jacklyn Nan Wagner, and herself. Grandmother Sarah Garner Conger lived with the family from September 1932, when her husband Elias Conger died, until her death in 1948.

She attended the Oakdale Public Schools in Oakdale, NE. She graduated from Oakdale High School in 1949. She attended Wayne State College at Wayne, NE where she majored in home economics and minored in English. She met her first husband, Paul Harold Roberts, at Wayne State, where he was also a student. They were married on 4 Mar 1951 at the Methodist Church in Oakdale, NE.

On 4 Jan 1952, Paul was inducted into the U.S. Navy, and served for four years during the Korean War. While Paul was in the service, the Roberts two children were born. Jeri Dianne was born on 2 Aug 1952 and Paul Douglas was born on 17 Dec 1953. In January 1956, Paul entered Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, MO, where he earned a degree in Petroleum Engineering in May 1959.

In September 1956, JoNelle began teaching home economics and biology at Bourbon High School, Bourbon, MO. In order to renew her teaching certificate each year, she attended summer school. In July 1959 she earned her Bachelors Degree in Education from Wayne State College. Since she was no athlete and not much of a musician, she had to excel academically. She graduated with high distinction.

The family moved to Kimball, NE in August 1959. JoNelle taught school at Dix, NE; Lodgepole, NE and Peetz, CO, while Paul worked in the "oil patch" in western Nebraska, first for the Halliburton Company and then for 33 years for the Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission at Sidney, NE.

The marriage of Paul and JoNelle Roberts ended with their divorce in 1976.

JoNelle retired from teaching in 1985.

On 19 Jul 1985, at Chautauqua, NY, JoNelle married Vernon Fredrick Linnaus. Vernon had also grown up on a farm at Oakdale, NE. Vern held an EdD from the University of Nebraska. He had taught accounting and economics at the University of Arizona and Central Arizona College for 21 years. After their marriage they lived in Tucson, AZ. Vern Linnaus retired in 1987 and they couple moved to Norfolk, NE where they were living as of December 1995.

ORGANIZATIONS: JoNelle Linnaus wrote to Maxine Leonard on 19 Oct 1992. I used the material from THE CONGER FAMILY OF AMERICA when I applied for membership in the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America recently. The genealogist for DFPa accepted all the material in the book without asking for additional proofs.

I trace my lineage through David Conger patriot (@1741-1778) and John Belconger's son, John (1674-1727).

Another highlight for me in using the Conger Family book has been visiting the graves of David (1767-1833) and Sarah Conger (1767-1833) at the Old Bates Fork Cemetery in Greene County, PA, this past July. The cemetery is terribly overgrown with weeds, but the flowers and American flag from Memorial Day were still near the markers. It was an exciting experience. Five years ago we visited Cameron, OH and other Monroe Co., OH cemeteries.

I knew Daryl Conger at Sidney, NE and we had to go back to John Belconger to find our common ancestor. He is descended from son, Job, and I from son, John.

My mother was always proud of her Conger heritage and enjoyed receiving the "Confab." She died in 1990 and I now have her book. Her first cousin is Minnie Conger Brown of Santa Maria, CA.

OBITUARY:

OAKDALE - Services for JoNelle J. Linnaus, 76, of Rapid City, S.D., formerly of Norfolk, will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the United Methodist Church in Oakdale with burial in Oakdale Cemetery. Visitation will be Monday from 4-6 p.m. at Home for Funerals in Norfolk.

She died Wednesday, June 3, 2009, at the Morningstar Assisted Living Center at Rapid City.

JoNelle J. Wagner Linnaus was born on Aug. 3, 1932, on the family farm one mile south of Oakdale to Irven E. and Jo (Conger) Wagner. She attended the Oakdale Public Schools and graduated in 1949. That fall she entered Wayne State College.

On March 4, 1951, JoNelle married Paul H. Roberts. The next eight years she spent rearing her two children, teaching in Bourbon, Mo., and finishing her degree at Wayne State during the summers. She graduated in 1959.

The family then moved to western Nebraska, living in Kimball, Dix and finally settling south of Sidney in 1962. JoNelle began teaching at the Peetz, Colo., Plateau School District in 1963 and remained there, teaching English and home economics until she retired in 1985.

On July 19, 1985, JoNelle married Vernon Linnaus in Chautauqua, N.Y. They lived for two years in Tucson, Ariz., until Vern retired from teaching. They moved back to Nebraska and Norfolk.

JoNelle spent these years pursuing family genealogy, including writing a book about her Wagner grandparents and their descendants. She and Vern traveled extensively in the U.S. and made several trips to Europe. Her most memorable trip was to Prussia (Poland)

OBITUARY:

Services for Dr. Vernon F. Linnaus, 82, of Norfolk [,NE] will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday at First United Methodist Church in Norfolk with burial in the Oakdale Cemetery. Visitation will be 3-8 p.m. Thursday at the Home for Funerals.

Dr. Linnaus died Saturday, Dec. 23, 2006, at Faith Regional Health Services [Norfolk, NE].

Vernon was born on May 3, 1924, at Oakdale, the son of Fred D. and Ida (Jensen) Linnaus. He was raised on the family farm south of Oakdale and attended Mt. Ayre and Star schools. He graduated from Oakdale High School in 1942.

Vernon earned his bachelor of arts degree from Midland College in 1949. He returned to teach in Oakdale High School in 1956, which began a career in education of more than 31 years. Vernon later earned his master's degree and doctor of education degree in business education from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln.

In November 1950, Vernon married Betty Patterson in Omaha. They had three sons and a stepdaughter.

Vernon had two career passions - teaching and farming. The farm, which his grandfather homesteaded in 1876, remains in the family. His third passion was researching a topic and writing about it. He had written books on professional baseball in Norfolk and the ill-fated Norfolk-Yankton railroad line. Vernon was working on a book on the Norfolk-Winner, S.D., railroad line at the time of his death. He enjoyed writing for the Oakdale Cemetery Newsletter and contributing articles to the Norfolk Daily News.

On July 19, 1985, Vernon married JoNelle Wagner Roberts in Chautauqua, N.Y.

Following his retirement in 1987 from teaching accounting and economics at Central Arizona College, he and JoNelle enjoyed traveling over most of the eastern United States and in Europe.

Vernon was fascinated with finding his Danish, Swedish and Finnish roots. He had maintained contact with his Swedish relatives who live in Jerbo, where his grandfather was born.

Vernon enjoyed learning languages and had been studying Swedish and German in recent years. He had a great sense of humor and enjoyed bantering back and forth with friends and relatives.

Vernon is survived by his wife, JoNelle; his three sons and their spouses, Fred and Socorro Linnaus of Tucson, Ariz., David and Wanda Linnaus of Oakdale and Robert Linnaus of San Clemente, Calif.; his stepchildren, Linda Deiley of Glendale, Ariz., Jeri Roberts of Las Vegas and Paul and Debbi Roberts of Sidney; 10 grandchildren, five stepgrandchildren, two great-grandchildren and five step great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by one brother and one sister.

The Rev. James Brewer will officiate.

MARRIAGE-HONORS:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Lemon, Jr. returned home Thursday from a short trip to Ouray. (Colo.) Friday evening about seventy-five guests from Rifle, Grand Valley and the neighborhood gathered at the Ben Lemon home for a reception and dance. Dainty refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests departed wishing them a happy wedded life. Saturday morning they departed with a shipment of cattle for Denver. After tending to business in Denver, the newlyweds will spend another week before returning to the Ranch.

BIOGRAPHY:

Who's Who Encyclopedia for the State of Colorado. About 1970, P. 1099

WALTER BENJAMIN LEMON, JR., is co-owner with his father, Walter Benjamin, Sr., of a ranching and farming property near Rifle, Garfield County, Colorado, doing business as W.B. Lemon and Son. To the original purchase of eighty acres, made by Walter, Sr. in 1912, many additions have been made, including several old homesteads, among them the Holmes homestead for which Holmes Mesa was named. At present W.B. Lemon and Son has 9760 acres of deeded land, mostly irrigated; 1900 acres of leased land; 3300 acres leased in partnership; with combined permit under Taylor Grazing and Forest Act for cows. The Lemons raise Hereford cattle, registered and commercial, and at present have about two thousand head. Brands include Quarter Circle L X and Quarter Circle L, the subject's brand; Walter B. III's brand, which is Slash H T; and Three Quarter Box 7, James Robert Lemon's brand.

Walter Benjamin Lemon, Jr., was born on Sept. 20, 1911, in Eagle, Colo., to Walter Benjamin and Mary Conger Lemon. Walter Lemon, Sr. was born in Pueblo Co., Colorado, on Apr. 24, 1884. The subject's Mother was born in Grand Lake, Colorado, on June 10, 1884; and was married to Mr. Lemon in Glenwood Springs in 1908. She passed away on Oct. 5, 1959. Walter Benjamin Lemon, Jr. attended schools in Garfield County and Intermountain Academy, an Adventist School, which was operated from 1920 to 1932 in the Rulison area.

Walter Lemon, Sr. decided against work in the steel mills of Pueblo and came west with two brothers, Robert Letcher and Frederick. The latter worked on the railroad at Eagle, Colo., and was killed in a railroad accident. Letcher became a cattle drover to Montana from Texas and was cook at the age of 70 for the last big trail drive to Montana. He was selected for the Cowboy Hall of Fame in 1957 on the basis of his general all around cowboy talent. He'd been General Trail Boss for the Goodnight Ranch in Texas. Walter, Sr., got a taste of the Old West during the two years that he operated a saloon at Eagle and during his days as owner and operator of the Pastime Recreation Hall in Rifle, which was located where the City Market is today. It was often necessary for him to disarm cowboys, who became too free with guns. Walter Lemon, Sr. was instrumental in building the first grandstand at the Rifle Fairgrounds, and he coached the first ball team in Rifle. He was also instrumental in starting the first Garfield County Fair and was one of the first directors of it. When he first came to Holmes Mesa to herd cattle for his father-in-law, John L. Conger, there were fourteen families on the Mesa. Today there are only four. The Mesa was named for the three Holmes brothers, who came here from Chicago. They came to a disagreement among themselves, and one brother was shot to death, with the other two spending the rest of their lives in the state penitentiary for murder.

In 1955 Lemon Vs Long was the first lawsuit in the State of Colorado over domestic water rights, with Attorneys Pettry, Delaney, and Darrow engaged for the trial. The case was decided in Lemon's favor by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The subject's mother's family, the Congers, Youngs and Bakers were very prominent in early Colorado history. The subject's grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Young Conger, came from Fort Wayne, Indiana, to Denver, with her parents in 1871, via immigrant railroad car. Her father soon established the first hack in the City of Denver, and in April of 1871 added dray service. At one time he could have traded a fine pacing pony for forty acres of land on which the Brown Palace Hotel now stands. The Young family bought a wheat ranch twenty-five miles east of Denver, later moving to Grand Lake where they built the Fairview Hotel in 1879. Mrs. Lemon's great-great grandfather, John R. Baker, came to Colo. from Ind. with the first gold boom about 1860. He filed Claim Number 52 which became the notorious Baker Mine in Clear Creek County. Mr. Baker had both gold and silver mines in Summit, Clear Creek and Grand County. John L. Conger, grandfather of the subject, was a charter member of the Masonic Blue Lodge of Rifle. The subject's father was a second cousin to Robert W. Steele, Colorado's first territorial governor, and has been president or secretary of the Battlement Mesa Cattlemen's Association since its inception.

Walter Benjamin Lemon, Jr., married the former Roberta Ann Morgan, daughter of George Frank and Grace Truman O'Quinn Morgan, in Rifle on Oct. 10, 1938. Mrs. Lemon was born in Hornbeck, Louisiana, and is a graduate of Northwestern State College of Louisiana and Western State College, Gunnison, Colo. She now teaches school in Silt, Colo. Her father was born in Abbeyville, Louisiana; her mother, in Boyce, Louisiana. Mrs. Lemon's parents were married in Hornbeck, Louisiana, on Jan. 13, 1916. Mr. and Mrs. Lemon are the parents of three living children: Mary Jo Ann, Walter Benjamin, III, and James Robert. Wm. Lamar died as a child. Mary Jo is an accomplished musician, Walter III is a student at Northwestern State College of Louisiana. James Robert was named State Farmer by the FFA and is state parliamentarian for the Junior Cattlemen's Association. Both boys have been and are very active in FFA and DeMolay.

John Conger Jr

Mr. Lemon, Jr. is president of the Battlement Mesa Cattlemen's Association, vice-president of the Holy Cross Electric Board, a director of the Colorado Ute Power Association, vice-president of the Holy Cross Electric Board, a director of the Colorado Ute Power Association, and president of the Soil Conservation Board. He is a member of the Farm Bureau, the Colorado Cattlemen's Association, the Holy Cross Cattlemen's Association. Mrs. Lemon is Noble Grand of the Rebekah Lodge and a past DeMolay Mother's Club member, past secretary-treasurer of the CEA, and radio chairman of the Colorado Cowbells. She is also a member of the CEA and the Order of the Eastern Star. Each member of the Lemon family has gained prominence, mainly in the fields of ranching and farming. This fine family has taken a leading role in the growth of the Rifle area, and each member has been concerned that the community become a better place in which to live because he or she contributed something to its betterment.

Errors in the above account:

1)Mrs. Young went to Grand Lake, August 1879 and homesteaded. She bought 115 acres on the west side of Grand Lake. The main hotel was built early summer of 1880 and was the second large structure in Grand Lake. Out Buildings (Barn, Storage, etc.) were built in 1881.

2)Fred Lemon did not work on the railroad. He was killed crossing the tracks.

3)1912 is more probably the correct date for the move from Rifle to Holmes Mesa, as it was shortly after Walter's birth. He was born in Sept. 1911. In 1910 Ben was still in Rifle per the Census.

He was born Sept. 20, 1911, to Walter Benjamin, Sr. and Mary Conger Lemon in Eagle, Colo., at the home of his great-grandmother, Mary Jane Hanscome, a well-known Colorado pioneer. He attended Garfield County schools, and the Intermountain Academy, an Adventist School that operated 1910 to 1932 in the Rulison area. He graduated from Ross Business School in Grand Jct. in 1934, and Colorado A and M in Ft. Collins in 1938. After graduation he opened a veterinary practice in Rifle for a short while. In late 1938 Mr. Lemon joined his father in a cattle ranching and farming operation on Holmes Mesa near Rifle doing business under the name of W. B. Lemon and Son on land which had been acquired in 1911 by his maternal grandfather, John Lincoln Conger, a well-known stockman. After his father's death in 1970, his younger son, James Robert, joined the family operation and the firm name was changed to Lemon Cattle Company. He married Roberta Ann Morgan on Oct. 10, 1938, in Rifle. Mrs. Lemon is a well-known primary school teacher who taught in Clifton, Silt and Rifle. She survives.

Mr. Lemon was Past-President of the Battlement Mesa Cattlemen's Association and Vice-President of the Holy Cross Electric Board. He was a director of the Colorado-Ute Power Association, and President of the Bookcliff Soil Conservation Board. He was also a member of the Farm Bureau, Garfield County Historical Society, the Colorado Cattlemen's Association, the Holy Cross Cattlemen's Association, and Past Worthy Patron of the Rifle Masonic Blue Lodge.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mary Jo Khan of Stockton, Calif.; two sons and daughters-in-law, Walter III "Bennie" and Nancy Lemon of Palisade and James and Judy Lemon of Parachute; five grandchildren, Walter Lemon IV of Evergreen, Davina Brower of Northglenn, Matthew Lemon of Palisade and Nadene Lemon and Danielle Lemon, both of Parachute; and three great-grandchildren, Zachary, Amanda and Seandra Brower, all of Northglenn. Mr. Lemon was preceded in death by son Wm. Lamar. Sowder Funeral Home in Rifle is in charge of arrangements.

[Notes: The city name Parachute was changed from Grand Valley in 1978 during the height of the Oil Shale Boom. Walter's Secondary Malady was Alzheimer's Disease.]

MARRIAGE:

Morgan-Lemon Nuptials Will Take Place Soon.

Announcement was made this week by Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson, Jr. of South Rifle of the engagement and approaching marriage of their niece, Miss Roberta Ann Morgan, to Walter Lemon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lemon of Holmes Mesa. The wedding will take place at an early date.

MARRIAGE:

Morgan-Lemon. A lovely informal wedding occurred Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson, Jr., when their niece, Miss Roberta Ann Morgan, became the bride of Walter Lemon of Holmes Mesa. Otto B. Duckworth of the Christian Church performed the single ring ceremony in the presence of members of the families and a few intimate friends. Mr. Ferguson gave the bride in marriage. Miss Eileen King was maid of honor and Frank Bernklau was best man. Mrs. Ferguson sang "Because" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Miss Wanda Goodrich played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin.

The bride was dressed in a dainty street-length dress of ice blue and rose and wore a corsage of gardenias. Her maid of honor wore a black dress trimmed with gold and a corsage of Talisman rosebuds.

After the ceremony a three-tier wedding cake decorated with hearts, roses and a miniature bride and groom was cut by the bride. Twenty guests, including relatives and friends, were served cake and coffee, and the bridal couple opened their wedding gifts which were many and beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemon then left on a short trip to an unannounced destination, planning to return to Rifle in a few days. They will make a trip to Denver next week, and after that will be at home to their friends at a small house on the Lemon ranch on Holmes Mesa until spring when they will build a new home.

Mrs. Lemon is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Morgan of Colfax, La. She came to Rifle about two years ago to make her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson. She has taken an active part in the social life of Rifle during her residence here and has made many warm friends in the community. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lemon of Holmes Mesa, and is engaged in ranching.

Roberta was a sickly child and came to Colorado at age 7 with Mrs. Ferguson for the benefits offered by the Colorado weather. For three years she flitted between Louisiana and Colorado and when Mrs. Ferguson (her aunt) and George Ferguson got married she went back to Louisiana permanently. After graduation from high school, Roberta went to Natchitoches to college. Roberta and her father could not agree about her boyfriends at Northwestern. One's father had a mistress and the other didn't come from the sort of family that he wanted his daughter associating with. One man became U.S. Senator from Louisiana and the other just left the Louisiana Supreme Court. The argument between Father and daughter went on for a while and finally her Aunt sent her a ticket to come to Colorado to cool off during the summer.

Roberta never went back to Louisiana except to visit. When it came time to marry Walter Lemon, she sent her parents a note saying that she planned to get married Oct. 9, 1938, and hoped that her father would give her away. Her father was annoyed and refused to come. The wedding went on without him. Her Mother did come. After a few years, her father cooled off after he decided that his son-in-law came from a satisfactory family.

Roberta didn't return to Louisiana until her twins were three years old. Her parents had employed the same negro woman for the house throughout Roberta's years at home. There had been a mix-up about the arrival date and nobody was at the train station to meet Roberta and her children. Roberta got a ride on home and as she and the children came walking down the road to the house, Mandy was heard to shout "Miss Grace, Miss Grace. Come quick! Becky's here with her little kumquats." Later during the same visit, Mandy remarked to Roberta "Becky. Those sure are pretty babies, but Honey, I'd rather see you with illegitimate babies than to have their father be a Yankee. It just breaks my old heart. They'll always be branded little half breeds and will never be accepted here." Until her death Mandy prayed daily for errant Roberta and those little half breeds.

Mrs. Ferguson had been teaching school in Silt and New Castle when Roberta as a child was living with her. Roberta's teacher was a Mrs. Nordstrom. In Geography Class the book stated that the ships all stopped at New Orleans and didn't go farther up the Mississippi River. Roberta advised the teacher that she'd seen them from her back yard in Baton Rouge and a lot of them came up the River from New Orleans. Neither the teacher nor the kid would compromise the issue. Roberta got a spanking for insubordination. When Roberta started teaching at New Castle many years later, that same teacher was now the Principal of the elementary school. Roberta walked in the door for the first day of school and was advised by Mrs. Nordstrom that she sincerely hoped that she was not going to be as much trouble as she'd been in the second grade. Mrs. Nordstrom in the meantime had gone to Baton Rouge and had seen for herself the ships that came up to Baton Rouge's Deep Water Port for docking, a procedure that had been going on since 1900 just as the little brat had said. Roberta didn't know whether to transfer immediately or continue at New Castle.

Roberta was President of about every organization that she ever joined and she joined all of them. She started teaching fifth grade in 1955 in Clifton, Colo. She started teaching a little earlier than she had planned due to necessity after her husband and father-in-law became victims of what the press dubbed "The Morman Swindle." They were taken, along with several others for a few million dollars. She took Mary Jo with her to attend Grand Junction High School and left the boys at the ranch where they continued school at Rifle. That way they would only have to pay out-of-district tuition for two kids. She went to the ranch on weekends.

She taught in Clifton for six years and was selected Teacher of the Year once as a result of her remedial dedication to troubled students. She was unconventional and was quite annoyed that so much stock is placed in "Cumulative Records." (The student's history which is passed on from teacher to teacher on a confidential basis). She felt that this method branded a kid for his entire academic career and that many teachers when they saw "don't bother trying to teach Little Johnny math because it's impossible" did just that without further investigation. Her feeling on the subject was that most of the time Little Johnny didn't learn math because the teacher failed to connect somewhere with Little Johnny, and apparently that was the case most of the time. When these kids landed in her classroom, she took the time to figure out the kid's learning problem. Usually after three months, little Johnny was brought up to speed and was a changed kid because he felt good about himself. He was succeeding and now knew that he wasn't a "Dummy" after all. Parents were standing in line to get their kid transferred into her classroom. She taught phonics and multiplication tables the first six weeks of school on general principles. Usually only about half of the kids really knew either.

The schools that she taught in didn't have "aids." Her classroom usually had 32 to 35 students and she taught the full curriculum. About half of the kids would show up with no breakfast, and then, of course, they were disruptive, unable to learn and their attention span was zero because they were plain hungry. Granola with lots of oatmeal, raisins, dates and nuts was handed out daily in her classroom in the morning at her own expense. She bought oatmeal in 50 pound bags, maintained bee hives in the fields at home for honey, and annually used 300 to 400 pounds of date chips from Palm Springs. She finally got the parents in the habit of sending an apple to school daily with the kid for snack time which helped out quite a bit, but it took a while to get the parents in the proper groove. She felt that the parents were remiss in their duties but considered it a small price to pay for the problems the granola solved for her in the areas of discipline and whining kids.

She provided in her classroom at her own expense, three sets of encyclopedias and two dictionaries. She gave each student a Leslie 20,000 Words Quick Spelling Dictionary at Christmas. When she had taught long enough at Silt and New Castle, these wonderful little 3 x 5 spelling reference books began reappearing with the next generation of students. Every student had to research and orally present three research papers a month and then submit the written text to her for evaluation on format, spelling, and grammar application. If everybody made 95 or above on their weekly 200 word spelling test on Friday, ice cream was served. One year it was served every Friday. Three times a year a spelling bee was held within the school including 5-6-7-8 grade students. Several times her 5 and 6 grade students won the championship.

In 1994 Roberta had a serious stroke which apparently destroyed the segment of the brain which controls balance and the eyes. She was rendered legally blind and has no balance left so she can no longer walk alone. She spends six months in Colorado and six months in California. When the time comes, she will be layed to rest beside Walter

HEALTH_HISTORY:

Wilma was very close to her father. Suicide is very difficult for those left behind. The circumstances etc. of his demise threw her into a nervous state which lasted about six years. The year Fred died everything came at once. His suicide in January, Jennie Fargher's death in February, in March Elbert in a serious automobile accident, Liddy had a heart attack in June. All of this with a full time job was about too much for Wilma to handle. She internalized the stress and wound up hospitalized from the stress about three times a year for the next several years. The problem finally wore itself out and life returned to semi- normal.

Charles Thomas (Tom) Stevens attended Southwest Missouri State at Springfield, Green Co., MO. He entered into the advanced Army ROTC program and became one of its leaders. Tom graduated in 1955.

In August 1955, he entered the U.S. Army as a new Lieutenant and Helen joined him in the fall at Fort Benning in Columbus, Georgia. Their oldest son, Mark, was born in the U.S. Army Hospital at Fort Jackson, SC. Tom was assigned to duty in Germany and Helen and Mark joined him there in 1958. During the time in Ausburg, Germany Tom and Helen's two younger children, Diana and Eric were born. The family took occasional trips into the less known places in Germany and greatly enjoyed their stay in that country. Tom served in Germany for five years before returning to the U.S. in July 1963.

Stationed again at Fort Benning, GA, the little family grew under Helen's watchful eye. They remained there during Tom's first tour in Vietnam. Next they moved to Rolla, MO where they lived for two years, one of those being Tom's second year in 'Nam.

In 1971, after living for several months in Denver, CO Tom's blindness brought a departure from military life. The family returned to Springfield, MO where Mark graduated from high school in 1974.

Both Tom and Helen reenrolled at Southwest Missouri State, contemplating possible new careers. In 1974, they moved to Columbia, MO to continue education with Tom enrolling in College.

RECOLLECTIONS: Brief Reflections on My Life

Graduating from a small town high school was an expectation of my life. After all, what was there? While an aunt had urged me to think about college, it took rejection by a girl to spur me toward that, a year later.

We were a farm family, where my folks share-cropped mostly. We were better off than many, because Mom taught school and there were new shoes for me every fall, although they never came until about three weeks after school started.

I learned a lot about that life and recall it fondly, with frequent urgings to return to a place where the peace and quiet prevail under the naked stars of night. But my life has been far from there.

I did go to college, graduating in 1955, with a degree, a commission in the Infantry and my wife. A year later, I had completed Airborne School at Fort Bragg, North Carolina and we were expecting the first of three children.

Less than two years later, we were in Germany, serving with the Infantry, working very hard. We were eventually there five years, getting to see the Passion Play in 1960. Our two younger children were born there.

We came back to Columbus, Georgia for three years, before I went to Vietnam, where I served two one-year tours. The first was with the Vietnamese as advisor and the second was with American troops. I did see some light action and did enjoy the professional challenge.

Eye disorders prevailed and I retired in 1971, after 16 years. College, work, National Federation of the Blind and a combination of those things has followed. I have struggled through two Bachelors degrees, one Masters degree and one Specialist degree. Maybe that will suffice for a lifetime.

Military service brought several awards, including two Purple Hearts and the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

My National Federation of the Blind (NFB) work brought some different activity and life today certainly has a different twist than I would have imagined when I graduated from high school.

Today's efforts are multi-dimensional. I am appointed to chair one national committee by the President of the NFB, am elected to preside over the Writers' Division of the NFB, serve on several NFB committees and work in the local chapter. That keeps me going, as does field work for the NFB.

Christian Television Mission has a board and I have chaired it, although my activity is not as great as it could be. Much work is to be done in that area.

Family history and genealogy has interested me recently and that is an ongoing project. It seems that discoveries come every day, then there are times when there are long droughts. But, with what seems to be relatively small effort, the record grows impressively. Now, the task of writing it into a sensible, readable story.

Some wonder about being blind. I have no regrets. I have met hundreds of fine people who I would never have met before. All three of our children graduated from a Bible college and have spouses who have either graduated or attended. Frankly, I doubt that my life has a lot of spare time.

I think that helping people is the primary orientation. For example, our children will have a fairly complete family history, a sense of what people have been. NFB members are urged to enroll people as Associate members as a way of educating them about blindness. Writers' Division members are encouraged to write and people are urged to consider life far beyond this one.

Life? It is to be lived, enjoyed, given and passed through.

Important? Family, accomplishing tasks and meeting needs, gain and maintain personal integrity and meet challenges head-on. Grow some tomatoes and beans and flowers, write and read some, never walk alone and take pride in who you are.

Charles Thomas "Tom" Stevens and Helen Louise Utterback were married on 27 Dec 1953 in Springfield, Greene Co., MO. Helen Louise Utterback, daughter of Avery Edwan Utterback and Lafa Ann Manuel, was born on 8 Jul 1933 in Santa Paula, Ventura Co., CA. Helen Louise Utterback

BIOGRAPHY:

Helen Louise Utterback was born in sunny Santa Paula, Ventura Co., California on 8 July 1933, the second surviving child of Avery Edwan Utterback and Lafa Ann Manuel. The Utterbacks were both born in Polk County in southwest Missouri. Lafa's Manuel lineage had its roots in South Carolina, thence to Lawrence County, TN, then to Polk County where they farmed. The males in the Manuel family were big men in stature, with some as large as 6'5" and 285 pounds. Helen's maternal grandmother had been born of the Watson clan, which had migrated from near the North Carolina/South Carolina border country to Roane County, TN, then northwest by wagon in 1871 to Polk county, MO.

The Utterback and Manuel families lived on the same mail route. Lafa could put a letter in the mailbox to, "Dear Friend Avery" and he would get it that day. Both had strong spiritual ties, which have carried down to their great grandchildren. Marrying in 1919, Lafa and Avery found farming a most difficult task in that era. In 1921, faced with a crop of watermelons that they could not sell, they struck out with four other families for California. The little convoy of five Model-T Fords followed a set of ruts across Oklahoma, Texas and the southwest. There were no gas stations with convenience stores, so they carried all their supplies except gas, camping out as had some of their ancestors who also went to California. Jim, their oldest child, had reached the age of about six months when they started the trip. Lafa Utterback recalls coming across one family which had a baby that died. They all stopped, helped the grieving family hold a burial service "beside the road" and went on.

In California, Avery Utterback became the foreman of an orange ranch. Irrigation, an occasional rattlesnake and other farming adventures are part of Helen's memories of that time.

After Helen graduated from eighth grade, they moved back to Polk County, MO, onto a farm that her parents had bought. She attended Fair Play High, graduating in 1951. She enrolled at Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield, MO in the summer of 1951. Early in 1952, she and Charles T. (Tom) Stevens met at a square dance. They became a couple on the national champion Southwest Missouri State Promenaders square dance team. Helen and Tom married on 27 Dec 1953 at Springfield, Greene Co., MO and soon found that square dancing was great fun but had no career. Helen graduated from Southwest Missouri State in 1954.

While Tom and Helen were stationed in Germany, Helen became very active in the Protestant Women's Group in Augsburg, Germany. At the time, Helen knew nothing of her German ancestry.

After the family returned to the states Helen continued to work in the Christian Church and was often called on to teach classes or to lead a group.

After Tom's blindness resulted in his departure from the military service the family returned to Springfield, MO. Both enrolled again at Southwest Missouri State. Helen, a fine teacher, gained a second BS degree, this one being in Elementary Education, while doing more church work and doing a superlative job as a housewife.

In 1974 after they moved to Columbia, MO, Helen soon became involved in publication of newsletters for members of the National Federation of the Blind, which continues today (1996). With an excellent reading voice and a talent for excellence in the finer details of newsletter publication, Helen was acknowledged in Missouri with awards and commendations for her work.

As a grandmother, she has knitted each of her eight grandchildren an afgan, one of those acts for her family that illustrates her love for them.

Helen has logged many miles on the car as she accompanies Tom to conventions and on family history seeking trips.

An excellent mother, grandmother, cook and helpmate, the stars in her crown are numerous.

HEALTH_HISTORY:

Wayne A. Wright is in the Putnam County Hospital in Unionville, MO. He had surgery for a ruptured appendix. He has been quite ill. We wish him a speedy recovery. Friends and neighbors of Wayne Wright did field work for him, May 24, [1986] while he was hospitalized.

BIOGRAPHY: Neighbors help Cincy farmer plant crops, by Kevin Cool, Managing Editor Cincinnati, [Iowa] farmer Wayne Wright can rest easy at nights, even if he can't be at home where he'd like to be.

Wright is recovering in a Unionville, MO hospital from a ruptured appendix he suffered May 24, [1986]. At the time of the incident, Wright's corn and soybean fields were empty, awaiting seed.

When friends and neighbors heard about the situation, they mobilized.

Lloyd Cowan needed only one day to collect volunteers, of which there was no shortage, and on Tuesday the group gathered at Wright's home, scattered to various fields in the Cincinnati area, and put his crop in the ground.

It was an example of how people in this part of the world stick together, said Fred Hatfield, one of the volunteers.

"Around here we're all neighbors. When somebody's down, everybody pulls together to help out," Hatfield said.

In all, 24 persons contributed to the effort, either directly or indirectly, and several others offered assistance but were told they weren't needed, said Cowan.

"It was no trouble getting people to help," Cowan said. "We even had to turn some (people) down because we had everything set up and we just couldn't use them."

The group planted 52 acres of corn on Sunday and finished up Wright's planting Tuesday by seeding 215 acres of soybeans. Volunteers included Lloyd Cowan, Lyle Cowan, Larry Cowan, Garry Cowan, Wade Cowan, Larry Drake, Don McCannon, Trent Mobley, Boby Logsdon, Ron Snider, Elvin Thomasson, Larry Ewing, Fred Hatfield, Cleo Webber, Tom Klinger, Greg Lowe, Bill Irelan, Gene Bullard, and John McCarthy; Dick McClure and Harold Dudley, who took care of Wright's cattle; and Glen Morrow, Carl Hawkins and Glen Hawkins, who each offered to share their equipment.

Mary Wright, Wayne's wife, said many of the volunteers dropped what they were doing to aid their friend.

"Some of these guys don't have their own crops in," she said. "We sure feel like we have some kind neighbors and friends."

Wright has helped others in similar circumstances in the past, the volunteers said, and they welcomed an opportunity to return the favor.

"Wayne is just like his daddy -- he makes friends and keeps friends," Hatfield said.

Relatives aren't sure when Wright will be released from the hospital, but they're not worried. "The farm is in good hands," said Mrs. Wright.

(Source: The Conger Family of America, Vol. I, p. 4-g - Maxine Crowell Leonard)

CHURCH_AFFILIATION: Methodist

RESIDENCES: 3906 6th & Senter; Burlington, CO

RECOLLECTIONS:

"Pete" was bitten by the "genealogy bug" and never rested until the missing link was found to tie his line into John Belconger. Acting on a hunch over the name "Aaron" in the family, Maxine Leonard, guided Pete into searching for Aaron, 1812, whose brothers had settled in Washington county, Iowa, and their families were accounted for. Pete's great-grandfather, William J. Conger, simply "appeared" there.

John Conger Jr

6 February 2017

On 6 Nov 1969, Pete wrote, "William J.'s discharge lists his birthplace as Washington county, New York. The 1860 census says he came from Ohio, so Ohio was only a stopover, I guess. We have the complete description of the two quarter sections that Aaron homesteaded in Washington county, Iowa. Gosh! They were right behind the Indians!

"I hope to get to Washington county and check some more records. Also I would like to stand on the very place that Aaron homesteaded. Sound crazy? We have the legal descriptions so I can find it. After Aaron's death William and John farmed the place for awhile.

"Someday I am going the whole route back to Woodbridge and John Conger (Primus). Should be able to drive in two weeks what took 300 and some years in the beginning."

When asked why he was called "Pete," he wrote, "My nickname was really used by my father just to tease me at first. We had an old junk man come by the neighborhood with the name of "Peter Rybar." The Pete came from this. I also felt my real name, Milton, sounded so sissified."

(Source: The Conger Family of America, Vol. I, p. 416 - Maxine Crowell Leonard)

OCCUPATION: Writer, who typed with a mouth stick

RESIDENCES: Box 571; Rosiclare, IL 62982

BIOGRAPHY: Rosiclare, Illinois Man, 36, Writes (Hard Way) - Disabled But Busy
Jerry Conger, 36, is a writer.

He also is a quadriplegic. For the past 20 years he has not walked, played basketball, turned the pages of a book with is fingers. When he was 15, he dived to the bottom of the Ohio River and broke his neck.

He has no use of his legs or the fingers of his hands. His vehicle is a wheelchair. He can move his arms to some extent and is able, with the help of arm splints, to feed himself.

In the ensuing years the Rosiclare native has discovered his goal in life - to become a published author. He always has been interested in writing, but he became seriously interested about 10 years ago.

He devotes his afternoons to long sessions at his carriageless electric typewriter which is stationed in the living room of the home he shares with his mother, Mrs. Hazel Conger. Conger types by using a mouthstick.

The mouthstick is a quarter inch dowel stick capped with a teeth-moulded acrylic mouthpiece and tipped with an eraser. It was while he was in therapy at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation in Peoria, IL that an occupational therapist suggested the mouthstick.

The instrument has opened up a new world for Conger. It is the world of the mind. It is a world where he can go anywhere he wants, do whatever he feels like, and create a universe all his own. In the past 10 years he has written novels, a few dozen short stories, and a number of poems, as well as numerous other articles. It is with the articles and poems he has had success. An article he did on himself appeared in the June 1971, issue of "The Exceptional Parent." This is a magazine for parents of children with disabilities.

In the article he told of his mouthstick and his love for writing and his philosophy about himself. He does not live in the past, although the past is an important part of life for him and he draws some of his fiction from it. But this is not his dwelling place. He writes and his writing keeps him geared toward the future.

Conger was in the hospital for three months after his accident but he was able to receive his diploma with the rest of his graduating high school class. After high school, he took a number of correspondence courses through the University of Illinois. The courses included rhetoric, literature, and psychology.

Serious fiction is what interests Conger the most. He turns out an average of 2,000 words each afternoon. So far he has not been successful with having his fiction published. Fiction is the hardest market to break into and, with so many magazines folding, Conger finds the obstacles on the road to being published are large.

But he keeps writing. Two more articles have been accepted by "The Exceptional Parent." He received mention in recent issues of "Time" and the "Saturday Review" in connection with the new magazine. "Time" carried a quote from his article -- "One Adjusts to Realities. I Try to Forge Ahead."

Although fiction is his first love, Conger also writes articles which require a good deal of research. Although the Rosiclare library is small, there is a good library system in Illinois which allows libraries to borrow from larger libraries such as the one at Springfield. The research for his articles also comes from government books and brochures.

A writer must be willing to accept any assignment. Perhaps the oddest assignment Conger tackled was an article on the louse. Robert Burns wrote a poem on the louse, so Conger decided maybe there was a louse market somewhere out there in publishing land. To his dismay one magazine informed him that it had already published an article on the louse.

Like Ireland's famed Christy Brown, the author who is completely paralyzed and types out joyous novels such as "Down All the Days" with his left foot, Conger has overcome

John Conger Jr

6 February 2017

numerous obstacles. He is not bitter. He is not angry over what has come to be his fate. He adjusts as best he can.

In his article for "The Exceptional Parent," Conger wrote: "One does not accept the unacceptable. One adjusts to realities, living always with hope. I try to forge ahead as everyone else does, fully aware that life may never be full, but determined never to accept less than I must. This doesn't mean I never despair. Depression, a sense of frustration and failure, lurk just outside conscious thought, ready to spring when something goes wrong."

COMMENT: On 21 Mar 1970, Ival Robert Conger wrote, "My father is even more thrilled at the thought of finally finding out about his ancestors. He has tried for several years to trace our family back, but has not been very successful. One interesting point about our family is that from Charles Seigel Conger to the present day there is only one male Conger left to carry on the name in our line. That dubious distinction falls to me."

AKA: Called, Rick

BIOGRAPHY:

Richard Hugh Mustard was born in the hospital in Port Angeles, Washington. After living in Texas while his father was in the Air Force, he grew up on the family farm near Brady, Washington.

He attended Grays Harbor College and Washington State University, and graduated with a B.S. in forestry engineering from the University of Washington around 1977 or so. He worked for private land surveyors, the Forest Service, and later for the Washington State Department of Natural Resources. At his death he was one of DNR's seven chief engineers.

Rick was an avid sailor, hiker and hunter. He held a concealed weapon permit mainly so that he could always have his grandfather's Colt .22 Woodsman pistol along in case he saw a game bird while out in the woods. He also, however, enjoyed pistol shooting.

Rick never married Carol Channell, mainly because she had already been married once and did not want to go through it again. They lived together as a married couple for all intents and purposes and their home was owned jointly.

He died of heart failure at age 43, the cardiac arrest was believed to have been induced by stress. At his request, most of his ashes were scattered in Young Cove near his beloved waterfront home, and were chased a bottle of beer. The family also interred some of his ashes in the family cemetery plot at the Satsop Cemetery.

RESEARCHER: Allan Mustard was interested in genealogy. He shared information about his part of the Conger family.

EDUCATION: Grays Harbor College; University of Washington, class of 1978

OCCUPATION: U.S. Foreign Service Officer

BIOGRAPHY: Allan Phillip Mustard

I was born in Aberdeen, Washington at St. Joseph's Hospital, and grew up on the family farm. I attended Grays Harbor College, a community college, then the University of Washington (Class of '78), special courses in Russian at Leningrad State University in summer 1978, then earned an M.S. in agricultural economics at the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign in 1982.

Over the years I worked for Jewish Family Service of Seattle assisting Soviet Jewish immigrant families, as a guide and interpreter on a U.S. Government agricultural exhibition in the Soviet Union, and in various odd jobs before being hired by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 1982. At that time I moved to the Washington, D.C. metro area. In 1986 I was inducted into the U.S. Foreign Service and in 1990 was commissioned. I have served as an agricultural officer in the American Embassy in Moscow (1986-88), the American Consulate General in Istanbul (1988-90), and am currently posted to the American Embassy in Vienna (1996-2000). At present I am a foreign service officer of the United States, rank of Class 1 (that's equivalent to a colonel in the military, which I pass on since most people don't even know the foreign service exists). I speak fluent Russian and passable German.

RECOLLECTIONS:

About 1990, Leann Weihhold wrote: "Ardna L. Conger Miller is my mother. She resided in Mesa, AZ until my husband and I moved her back to Kansas. She endured quite a battle with cancer. Her last wish for me was to carry on the CONGER tradition, of which I am only too ... to do. My husband is an engineer. I carry on the family tradition as a devoted teacher in the elementary schools here. Our daughter, Bethena, is a 22 year old college ... majoring in German and Elementary Education. She will continue working on her ... to become a Christian counselor. Sam, our 21 year old, is a college junior majoring in computer science. We are most definitely a Christian family who are all ... to the Lord -- and to each other. What more could we ask for in this age of ... for so many."

RECOLLECTIONS:

My grandfather, Albert Ross Hogue, was the County Historian for Fentress County, TN. As a young man he served in the State House of Representatives. He lived to be 105. After his death, the library dedicated a section to his writings and there is a plaque there honoring him. He wrote an autobiography that contains much genealogical information about his side of the family. I have a copy of it as well as another booklet he wrote on the strange state laws and lawsuits of Tennessee. He also wrote a history of the Cumberland mountains. He was a school teacher and school superintendent, lawyer, and member of the historical society. After he and Josie Abbott Hogue were divorced he lived in Jamestown, TN where he held a life interest in land and home that my parents owned. They later sold it when they retired to Tampa, FL when my Dad retired from the Army. He kept the life interest and lived there until he had to go into a nursing home. I have newspaper clippings about parties given for him for his 101st and 103rd birthdays and his obituary. He retained his awareness and senses up until his death.

Jessie Abbott Hogue lived in Livingston, TN until her death. My mother did not get along with her parents so I did not see this set of grandparents after about age 12 or so. I have fond memories of visiting this Grandmother. She would always give me a jar of home preserved tomatoes with a big spoon and send me outside to play. After wolfing down the tomatoes -- which to this day I can still taste in my mind as being the most delicious ones ever!! -- I would take the spoon and jar and play in the dirt. Try amusing a child in this day and age with a spoon and jar and a pile of dirt and see how long it lasts! I can remember getting water out of the well behind her house. There was a bucket you dropped into the well and then pulled up. There was a ladle spoon to drink the water out of. That was the coldest, best tasting, water I have EVER had. Funny the things you remember.

MARRIAGE: Engagement:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Lemon, Jr. of Rifle announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Jo Ann, to Zia ur Rehman Khan of Meerut, India. The wedding will be an event of Oct. 28, [1967]. A native of Rifle, she attended school here and was graduated from Grand Junction High School. She attended Mesa College, The University of the Seven Seas and is a graduate of the University of Denver, the University of Colorado, and Juilliard School of Music. She is a violinist with the Denver Symphony and currently on leave preparing to appear as Roberta Peter's understudy in the Role of Carmen in the Opera of the same name being presented by the Central City Opera Company this summer. Mr. Khan has received degrees from Meerut College, Meerut, India, Cambridge University, Cambridge, England, and the University of Denver, Denver, Colo. He is currently working toward his doctorate in engineering at the University of California at Berkeley. He is an employee of Kaiser Industries of San Francisco as an engineer.

MARRIAGE:

Liberal Reverend Duckworth had for 40 years been the minister at the Christian Church in Rifle. He was scheduled to retire, but at the request of the church board was staying on to complete the wedding commitments he'd made and would split the fees with the new preacher. All new wedding bookings and funerals would go the new preacher. When the new preacher found out that Zia Khan was a Moslem, all hell broke loose. The fellow was adamantly against interdenominational marriages and would under no circumstances allow this wedding to be held in the Christian Church. He proceeded to deliver a thirty minute lecture about the proverbial sin of my intentions. Rev. Duckworth didn't quite agree with him, but kept his mouth shut waiting to see what I did. I listened to the rigid man of god and told him I wasn't convinced. Rev. Duckworth walked me to the car and told me to stop by his home before I left town. He walked on down to the other end of the block to the Presbyterian Church and prevailed upon the Minister there to allow the wedding to go forth in his facility. The new Christian Church Minister after a few more extemporaneous occasions was run out of town. Where did he eventually land? Stockton, California. At a local fund-raiser of which my husband was General Chairman he delivered the invocation. I couldn't resist bugging him by bringing to his attention, that we ill-matched souls were still happy about being married after twenty-seven years.

MARRIAGE:

Mary Jo Ann Lemon, the daughter of a pioneer Rifle, Colorado, family and Dr. Zia ur Rehman Khan of Meerut, India, were married in an evening ceremony, Saturday, October 28, 1967, at the Presbyterian Church in Rifle, Colorado. The Reverend Otto B. Duckworth who had married the bride's parents, Oct. 10, 1938, officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony which was witnessed by two hundred friends and relatives from Colorado, Louisiana, Florida, Finland and India. The church pews were awash in a kaleidoscope of fall colors. Baskets and cascades of yellow, ivory and bronze chrysanthemums along with pastel yellow candles provided a colorful setting for the ceremony. The candlelighters were James Robert Lemon, brother of the bride, and Art Styles. The responsibilities of ring bearer were carried out by Stephen Schorer of Denver, Colo., while his sister Rhonda Schorer served as flower girl. The bride chose her sister-in-law Nancy Ruth Lemon as Matron of Honor and long-time friends Mary Jane Kelly, Wilemina Karels and Becky Dawson all of Denver, Colorado, as bridesmaids. The ladies' floor-length gowns carried out the fall color theme with light olive green lace bodices which flowed into empire-line skirts of pastel yellow crepe. A crown of green tulle completed their outfits. The bridegroom selected his college friend Nehil Rezvi of Denver, Colorado, as his best man and Aslam R. Khan and W. B. Lemon, III, as groomsmen.

The bride walked into the church to Amazing Grace played on the organ by Leta Duckworth. Vocal selections were presented by Phil Eisler. At the sound of the Wedding March, the bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father and was given in marriage by her parents, Roberta and Walter B. Lemon, Jr.

Her classic, A-line, floor-length bridal gown was designed of white chantilly lace and peau de sois, which had been reembroidered with seed pearls and sequins and terminated in a short train. A double court length, tulle mantilla secured by a cornet of pearls and sequins completed the bridal dress. Her necklace was a gift from her maternal grandmother, Grace Morgan of Natchitoches, Louisiana. The bit of old came in many forms. The Bible on the Altar was published in 1832 and was first given to the bride's great-great maternal grandparents, Wm. Araster and Harriett Thompson O'Quinn at their marriage January 25, 1833, in Natchitoches, Louisiana. All of the family births, deaths, and marriages since that date have been recorded in beautiful script by Mr. and Mrs. O'Quinn, their son James W. and his wife Kate Killingsworth O'Quinn and by the bride's Grandmother, Mrs. Grace O'Quinn Morgan and her husband Geo. F. Morgan. The bridal bouquet of gladiola, lilies and stephanotis was fashioned around an antique handkerchief that bears the date "1834 - Lucinda Flynn." According to family diaries and newspaper clippings, this handkerchief was made by Mrs. Flynn for her daughter Lucinda's marriage to Mr. John R. Baker. It was again used by her granddaughter Mary Jane Baker when she married Henry Jacob Young, Jr., Feb. 9, 1854, at the William Penn Inn in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and then by her great granddaughter, Mary Lucinda Jane Young, on Aug. 15, 1883, for her marriage to John Lincoln Conger at the Fairview Hotel in Grand Lake, Colorado. It was last used by the bride's grandmother, Mary Ethlyn Conger when she and W. B. Lemon, Sr. were married in Glenwood Springs, Colorado, November 1, 1908.

The bride was presented a hand transcribed copy of the Koran by the bridegroom. This hand transcribed copy had been made by the groom's great-grandfather and presented to the groom by his grandfather as a going away gift and remembrance of home when he left India in 1958 to come to the United States for higher education. The Koran represented the groom's most highly prized possession. His giving it to the bride represented his willingness to share his most prized possession with his new bride. The bride's engagement and wedding rings were designed by the groom's mother Zafar Zamani Bagum Khan, utilizing diamonds and emeralds which had been part of her marriage jewelry. Diamond earrings and a matching nose stud were also part of her jewelry wedding gift to the new bride. In keeping with Moslem tradition the bride received the one dozen glass bangles as a reminder of life's fragile nature and a matching dozen of pure gold ones symbolizing her pledge of security and agreement as mother of the groom. A short sermon from the Koran about the respect demanded from and the responsibilities of those that enter into matrimony was read from the Koran by Sayah Kizvi from Finland. An interdenominational prayer was offered by Reverend Brown.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Methodist Church Social Room. Guest Book duties were handled by Josephine Ferguson, Great-Aunt and namesake of the bride from Grand Junction, and Virginia Moore, Godmother of the bride from Rifle poured punch. Helen Gonzales, family friend from Rifle was in charge of the four-tiered wedding cake which she'd decorated with hanging clusters of sweetpeas and wisteria.

Sunday afternoon, Oct. 29, Mrs. Adolph Coors and her daughter Cecily hosted a reception for the couple at their Polo Circle Drive home in the Cherry Hills District of South Denver.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the newlyweds will return to Denver and drive cross country to San Francisco where another reception will be hosted by B. G. Lal and Mrs. Zamini Khan at the Fairmont Hotel on November 18.

The groom is the son of Fazl and Zamani Khan of Meerut, India, and recently received his doctorate degree in Engineering from the University of California at Berkeley. He is currently employed by Bechtel Corporation of San Francisco as an electrical engineer. The couple will make their new home at 701 Pine Street, San Francisco, California.

BIOGRAPHY:

World War II changed the role for women permanently in the United States. Mary Lemon could see that Mary Jo was going to be living in a very different world than she had seen and was quite outspoken to her son that he should educate his daughter into the world of business. Basket weaving, tea pouring and a pretty face were no longer enough for a woman to get on in the world with. Apparently Walter took her lectures to heart, because all of his children had a business of some type which they had to run. Bennie and Jim had registered cattle operations. Mary Jo had a Christmas tree growing business and took over her twin brother's angle worm business at his demise. Both businesses were mechanized enough that they were not labor intensive. Therefore, Mary Jo mainly had to handle the sales aspect of both businesses and do the soil testing required to keep the worms in heavy production. Tree cutting had to be organized but men were hired by "the firm" to get that hard job done. Mary Jo spent a lot of hours in early spring trans-planting into the ground the seedlings that she had started in the hot house for replacement trees. Half of the profits had to be saved and the other half was working capital. Mary Jo had accumulated enough savings that it paid for nearly all of her college expenses, bought her first car, and an airline ticket to Europe. The Stocks and Bonds she still has and they will become retirement income.

In the early years Mary Jo studied piano which was a good base for all musical activities. Violin, clarinet and voice lessons were added later. She studied with the best teachers in the area and took private lessons during the summer at the Aspen Institute. She went to Interlocken Michigan's World Renown Music Camp for three summers. She wanted to go to Juilliard School of Music straight out of high school, but her father wasn't about to let a country seventeen year old go to New York straight from the nest. Some compromises were made. His strong suggestion about "something solid that you can support yourself with anywhere like "BUSINESS" got its due to subdue father and the passage of time achieved some "City Seasoning."

Musically Denver was a good place to be for young musicians. Both Denver University and the University of Colorado music majors acquired substantial professional experience as support vocalists with the Central City Opera Co. during the summer where the leading opera singers from Europe and New York appear annually. Her private musical training had been thorough enough that 118 credit hours were eliminated at Denver University through comprehensive tests. She went straight through with an overload and finished the degree in record time.

While at Grand Junction High School, Mary Jo had taken the Evelyn Woods Speed Reading Course in early high school and had developed a very fast reading speed with good comprehension by graduation. This accelerated reading ability plus her requirement for very little sleep put academic achievement in the fast lane and developed a lot of free time. She registered at the University of Colorado Denver Extension and simultaneously worked toward a business administration degree there while attending the University of Denver though at a little slower pace than at D.U.

With father's "business demands" stationed in "silent mode" she went to New York to Juilliard School of Music with his blessing and financial support. After graduation, she was tired of the school scene and wanted a change. She went to Europe (Spain) with the International Historical Preservation Corp. This international organization organizes student work groups who donate 75% of their time abroad to the restoration of the world's historical landmarks in exchange for free accommodations for 100% of the time abroad. Work consisted mainly of gofer and light manual type work under the direction of a well-qualified supervisor. Painting, furniture refinishing, wall paper hanging, pattern matching, mortar mixing, rug repair, needle work repair, washing, ironing, etc. You did work 12 to 14 hours a day and were too tired for much night frolic although Sat. and Sun. were free for day trips during the work segment of the assignment.

Since her Grandmother Lemon had given her a good textile and embroidery orientation as a child, her assignment was the Prado in Madrid where she did repair on lace with human hair, remove weak spots in 20 x 40 feet Belgian and Spanish Linen Tapestries, hand dyed wool to match damaged gobelins and antique rugs. She also replaced a lot of beads on ecclesiastical robes dating back to the thirteenth century. When museums sell swatches or remnants of old textiles, the edge threads are tied off to thwart further thread movement. This is done with extremely fine thread and if done properly, can't be seen with the naked eye. The threads are so fine that the work is executed under a large magnifying glass to speed up the process. She probably did a couple of miles of this fine and exacting needlework.

Joining the Peace Corps seemed to be the fashionable and interesting thing to do, so when she returned from Spain she joined and was assigned to India for two years. While there she pursued Indian Music and Art in detail while she carried out her assigned duties of birth control and nutritional education. In the process she received a liberal education herself about the glass strings attached to U.S. Aid abroad and the inefficient manner in which these programs are administered. She'd get the village ladies interested in taking birth control pills which were provided by the U.S. Government. One time she received 1000 day old chicks in lieu of birth control pills which caused quite and uproar for miles around.

Upon return after the Peace Corp, she worked in New York as a musical arranger and wrote or arranged music for thirty second television commercials. She shared an apartment with six women. An interior decorator/artist, a stock broker, documentary/fashion photographer and sometime catalog model, a travel agent and a fashion journalist. We all shared the rent, a fur stole, a full-length fur coat and a cleaning lady. From each I learned a great deal and have enjoyed their friendship through the years.

I was registered with the Community Concert Assoc. in two categories - piano and violin. They kept me pretty busy with solo concerts. There were also guest soloist appearances with the Chicago, Denver, Dallas, and New York Symphony Orchestras. New York was where the action was, but being located there and with the Community Concert Assoc. wasted a lot of time and money in airfare as they sent you all over the country. The winter ski season was coming up and Colorado has the best ski slopes in the U.S., so I decided to shift back to Denver which placed me in the center of the country. I could go on an early flight and most of the time return on a night flight the same day. I was also a violinist with the regular Denver Symphony during this period.

For a while Zia worked on as a field engineer on jobs in Alaska and Sand Diego after he got home full time, he volunteered my services at Bechtel Engineering where I learned electrical drafting. They had gotten a new computer and were doing a pilot for a company that was designing a drafting program. Most of the engineers could not type, but knew what they wanted on the drawing. I could type, so I was their minion. Little did I know how much I would use that knowledge after my husband started a business. I once went with him to Saudi Arabia on a consulting assignment to do his drafting work. The Saudis don't want anything to do with women. If they could figure out how to have babies without them they'd do it and eliminate the women. Anyway, I got locked in a 1st class hotel room for six weeks. (It was like jail). The food was passed through the opening in the door and the drawings were sent down a dumb waiter. If I had a question to clarify with the Lord and Master, I had to call on a special telephone and quickly hang up. He'd call me back since it would not be acceptable for me to be talking to any male except my husband. To put it mildly, I earned my $50,000 while there and ain't been back.

When auditions became available for the San Francisco Light Lyric Opera Company, and the San Francisco Opera Company, I auditioned for both and was hired for role and support choral work. I have continued with this part-time work now for twenty-eight years. It has worked out well for me because it is seasonal and not very demanding unless you have a role. Even then, if you're a quick study and can remember the director's blocking decisions, three major rehearsals a week usually gets the job done especially for the SF Opera Co., as they do only classical opera and there are only so many of those in existence.

This part-time schedule left enough time for me to pursue the more lucrative commercial ditty, ad writing and arranging again. My best known and longest running ad is the little dough boy for the Pillsbury Co. One of the more recent and on-going ones is the middle-aged romance couple for Taster's Choice Coffee. If the actors don't age too much to preclude nice photography, that one can go on for quite a while. Who knows. The dancing raisins also happened at my house. The Pillsbury ad was done with old-fashioned animation art work and still photography. The dancing raisins, however, fully happened on my computer and took me about thirty minutes to do.

My husband being a foreigner was monetarily exploited. He'd decided that a job change was the fastest way to get his salary up to the going rate. His first interview was in Stockton. He took one look at the place and decided that it wasn't for him. However, when they offered him four times what his current salary was, they sparked his interest. His thought was that he could stand most anywhere for a little while if it achieved his goal.

California was growing quickly and Stockton was getting it's share of new growth. Stockton is located half way between Sacramento and San Francisco in the heartland of the agricultural section of California. Stockton is well known from World War II as a rough and tumble, boozing, red-light town. The U.S. Navy had a ship yard here which was the point from which a lot of World War II soldiers departed. There was no housing available and what there was was miserable. They did have a two-bit symphony that was more off than on, a little theatre group, a small junior college, a dying private university, was close to the mountains and had good boating in the delta.

There actually was a lot of old agricultural money in Stockton among the second and third generation Italians, Portuguese and Greeks. They, however, made it here and spent it elsewhere. The new growth population was also making good money, but they had children to rear and wondered why the place couldn't be improved to support their taste. Fritz Grupe, the son of a pioneer Stockton Italian family was just out of college and ready to try his wings. He took over his father's construction business and started building gated, nice track housing in the $40,000 to $300,000 range for the new population and accompanied his building with a publicity blitz about Stockton's affordable housing. He couldn't build fast enough to accommodate demand.

An attorney's wife had appointed herself the City Hostess partly for something to do and partly because she suffered from manic depression. Once a week she hosted a brown bag luncheon discussion group for city newcomers. She'd round up a speaker from the community and served coffee and dessert for a twenty- five cent donation. She got her names from the telephone and gas company New Connections Manager so she was pretty thorough with her invitation coverage. It suggested that a Community Betterment Group should be formed from this group of ladies for the purpose of Symphony Fund Raising, Hospital Auxiliaries, an Arts Commission and to generally coagulate the ragtag women's groups that were in the city. The theme was "Stockton - Someplace Special." The seventy-five present that day became Chairmen and the mainstay of the various groups. Every newcomer that had come to Stockton in the last two years was contacted about the project. The mood of these ladies was constructively change it or bust it. The improvement in the city was spectacular. Mary Jo was on the Arts Committee and Chairman of the Symphony Fund Raising Project. We pumped new life into the Symphony League and within the year had raised ten million dollars - 50% of which were perpetual funds.

Companies like Heintz Pickle and Catsup, Hunt Wesson, Herhsey Chocolate, The Grupe Company, Alex Spanos, General Mills and Getty Oil have been loyal and appreciated contributors for many years now.

My husband had started a small business and it was becoming more and more apparent that some legal education would be beneficial to the situation. He had landed a contract in Palo Alto that was going to take about three years to finish so the time was right to go to Stanford Law School. The General Contractor on the site lived in Modesto which is not far from Stockton and commuted daily by air. Zia and I hitched a ride. All I had to pay was tuition and keep myself organized. There was space for an extra desk in the back of the Manager's jobsite trailer, so I put together an old-fashioned decorators screen and hid behind it. The job site was only six blocks from the University, so a bicycle worked for local transportation.

I never really used the degree very much except for our business contract work mainly due to the times and our location. I did interview a few times and was hired by an old firm here in Stockton. However, when I arrived, the old goat heading the firm was quite taken aback that a woman was I. "We really don't hire women here, and I further don't think that women should be in this profession. This profession takes dedication and you women fly in and out as the babies come." I told him that "I was certainly glad that I wasn't his client since he obviously had not done his homework or he'd have known that I was a woman as it was clearly indicated that I was a woman and also a married woman." His attitude was not in the minority at that time out in the provinces. A few years later when the law began to force the hiring of women and minorities, he came hunting for me. By then I was no longer interested in regular work as my husband is a man that likes to go "now" and you'd better be in go mode quickly or the boat leaves. Not that he is impatient or inconsiderate, but because that is the nature of his business. Therefore, I did accept an agreement to do specialized research for his law firm which gave me my required flexibility and he complied with the law as he was required to do. I was the only professional woman on his staff for eighteen years.

One case I did take because nobody else in the firm would and because Beardslee felt obliged to help out his regular client if he could. All of his "dedicated men" didn't want to take the razing that went with taking this case as it would get a lot of publicity and a lot of laughs. It did result in one of the few arguments I've had with my husband. The details of the case are pretty well presented by The Oakland Tribune which carried the following story. "Hawaiian Mortuary Sued. - Pig Shipped With Body. A jury is being asked to decide whether a mortuary should be held liable for placing a dead pig in a shipping container with the body of a Jewish woman who was to be buried in Stockton. In her opening statement yesterday, attorney Mary Jo Khan, representing the family of Mimi Goldberg, told the state circuit jury that the act was "horrifying and despicable" and a "defilement of everything that had been important to Mimi and her family." To religious Jews, the pig is the "worst taboo, a symbol of hatred and contempt throughout history, perhaps only rivaled today by the swastika," Khan said. But an attorney for Nuuanu Mortuary, William MacCortin said that it was an accident, a "bizarre unfortunate series of events" that led to a plastic bag containing the fetal pig being placed in the shipping container. A part-time employee brought the dead pig, which had been dissected by his wife at home for a college project, to the mortuary in a plastic bag for disposal, and it was mistakenly placed in the casket by an embalmer who thought the bag held personal effects. Khan did not disclose how much money the Goldberg family is asking in its lawsuit, but said that she will introduce evidence to support punitive damages. Mimi Goldberg died in April 1985 at the age of 89. The contents of the casket were discovered in a Stockton synagogue, where the body had been shipped for an Orthodox Jewish burial."

The amount sought in damages was $5,000,000. The jury awarded $500,000 to the Goldberg family who refused to accept the money after the award. They gave it to me with instructions to do whatever I wanted to with the money since it was connected with a vile pig. The Muslim belief about the pig is the same as the Jews so Zia Khan would not have anything to do with the money either. We finally solved that dilemma with separate tax returns and my investing the money as my personal property. My husband would go on the welfare before he'd accept a cent of that money or the interest earned on it.

The Stockton Chorale and Sweet Adeline Vocal Groups that I belong to wanted to do a bit of traveling, so I wound up handling travel and booking arrangements. The one hundred member Chorale has made four trips to Europe and performed in most of the main cathedrals of Western Europe.

Shortly after arriving in Stockton, the University of the Pacific (a private university) was looking for a trip escort for their summer tour study groups over and above the usual professors. My job was on- the-spot problem solving while the professors attempted to pour some knowledge into the student's head. That was the beginning of lots of trips for me. I started designing and arranging specialty tours to Europe and the Orient after that. Subjects pursued: Couture Houses of Europe, architecture, horse racing, gardening, castles, classical embroidery, lace making, weaving, ecclesiastical robes, alternative medicine, surgery under hypnosis, trains, golf, specialized genealogy, china making, glass blowing, tin smiting, garbage handling, red light districts, sewer treatment plants, Chinese cooking, French and Italian cooking, ready-to-wear clothing factories, shoe and glove makers, building construction and irrigation in Israel, court system management procedures, jails, flower marketing, medieval cities, fabric dying, batik, beer making, wine making, hard liquor and liqueur making, to name a few.

I got myself registered as a bonded courier and have gone a lot of places through that medium. Attorneys and companies who want documents signed and don't want a slip-up, utilize courier services. Jewelers also use couriers since they are less conspicuous than the traditional fellow with the brief case pad-locked around his waist for security. Companies doing business abroad use couriers to deliver bribe money. While it is classified as an illegal practice, it goes on big time all over the world. U.S. account- ants call the expenditure of funds - attorney's fees, research fees, finders fees, etc.

One assignment was to hand carry Itzhak Perlman's repaired Stradivarius violin to him in London and then return the borrowed Stradivarius he was temporarily using to his friend in New Orleans. I jokingly told him that if he ever needed a tax write off, I could help him out. The Stockton Symphony would love to have him appear as a guest soloist but unfortunately was too poor to afford him as they were only a struggling community orchestra. In about three months I got a note that he was willing to appear and would be back in San Francisco the next week and to call so the details could be settled. He has called twice now when he needed that write-off. The Stockton musical community has been most grateful as he is not only a good violinist, but also has a lot of personality.

I was being asked to solve so many problems for people from Pakistan and India that it was becoming a bit onerous. The girls from there would be married to some fellow here and be miserable because they were inept in the art of western housewifery and had just moved in with a stranger. I jokingly told my husband that I should start Housewife School. His family was all present when I made the statement and thought that it was a great idea. They all went home and promoted my school amongst their friends. I began getting requests for help for whatever my fee would be. Therefore, I opened "Housewife School" as a three month course that acquainted young East Indian and Pakistani women of marriageable age with how to become a U.S. Housewife in ten easy lessons. I put together a notebook of information in Urdu, Hindi, and English. Spices, cooking terms, vegetables, etc. were in all three languages. Emergency Numbers like 911 were explained and recourses open to them if the new groom resorted to battery, etc. Bank Statement reconciliation, money management and grocery coupons were a part of the course. Field trips were arranged to hospitals, grocery stores, appliance stores, public laundries. The basics of cooking and cooking safety were explained. They had to prepare all of the food consumed while they were here. A starter collection of native recipes and a list of Hallal (kosher) butcher shops etc. The science of house cleaning was taught and they had to keep up the apartments they were living in. They were not told about "cleaning ladies" until the last day of school. These gals would arrive with their father who was also shopping for a proper groom with a green card for his daughter. Papa would keep things interesting because he approached the subject of marriage for his daughter just like a job search. Each papa would arrive with $20,000 to $50,000 waded up in his pocket and had a unique set of requests which resulted in a wide variety of investing problems and quite varied groom interviewing. We set up an 800 number so that the brides could follow up if they had a question. I finally sold that business off to a Bay Area Indian Couple who expanded it, bought a building, and made it into a full-time business complete with beauty salon specializing in wedding makeup and video, and a house full of tailors that could put together the wedding finery in a matter of days.

After the Vietnam War, President Jimmy Carter opened our shores to thousands of Vietnamese and Cambodian Refugees who were given "Legal Refugee Status." They, as refugees, received money for eighteen months from the U.S. Government tax free. After that period, they had to be self-supporting. They were scattered all over the United States in an effort to defuse their economic impact on local economies and later the welfare rolls when the eighteen months were up. San Joaquin County started out with 800 of them. The word quickly traveled that Stockton was a lot like the homeland. The weather was nice, and a lot of life is spent outdoors. The mass migration was on. At that time, a P.O. Box would do as a mailing address and was considered to be more secure than a physical address for mailing welfare and refugee checks. Therefore, all of the checks would be forwarded to one P.O. Box and then reenveloped and mailed to the recipients in California by the one designated to stay behind. Stockton in a three month period of time wound up with 40,000 of these folks. They were all having a new baby every nine months.

The school system couldn't handle these students because many of the older kids had never seen the inside of a classroom and were totally illiterate as were most of the adults. Some of the men could speak a little english and the pretty women could speak english as a result of their prostitute days back in the homeland. The old men and women were another story. They were educated but had been ravaged by age and hard times back home. They, however, were the key to the success of the Stockton Program.

San Joaquin County was ignoring this social problem and kicking it to the State of California for solution. Nothing was being done about the mess at any level. The churches were doing their bit, but they had limited resources. The local citizenry was kept in an uproar as a result of the theft of their flowers, pet dogs and cats by these foreigners for dining purposes. These folks couldn't speak english, couldn't get a job because of it and the situation was in limbo with the authorities. Something had to be done. The church ministers had a meeting and decided that they could help to solve the problem by teaching these folks English. They mobilized and called on the public for volunteers for the project and from every organization in town. I represented the Haute Couture Societe (a sewing club). The idea was a noble one, but there was noting in the form of administration being put in place to structure the plan for success. I stated my view and was ask to manage Operation English for one year. My one year commitment grew to five years. I feel that it was time well invested. If we were going to have them on our shores, they'd better function so they could pay their own way and not be on welfare. Those who were involved in the Stockton program have succeeded, entering the college system, becoming homeowners and small business owners. ("John Lincoln Conger," 1 Oct 1996, by Mary Jo Khan)

SIBLINGS:

Zia's siblings all used Stockton, California as their starting point in the U.S. so for that reason I have put a small summary on them here. Zia Siblings Aslam R. Khan, (Seema Khan) Durdana Khan (Mrs. Osman M. Khan) and their six children have both migrated to the U.S. and have obtained U.S. Citizenship. Brothers Anwar and Afzal remained in Pakistan where they had migrated in 1947 at the time of partition when the area known as Pakistan was cut away from British India and named Pakistan. Aslam's sons Waji graduated from Purdue Univ. and Cornell, Sabi graduated from Cornell twice, Omar graduated from Univ. of Houston, Saima (Sajid Siddique) graduated from Univ. of Pittsburgh, Daneez (Rezwan Ali) graduated from Ca. State Univ. - San Francisco and is doing graduate work at Columbia Univ., and Haroon ("Chico") graduated from Univ. of Ca. at Berkeley. Bro. Anwar (Rukhsana) children Maliha is a Bank Mgr., and Meher is also in Banking in Pakistan. Neither married and both are getting Canadian immigration. Anjum - Commercial Pilot living San Francisco, Ca.. Bro. Afzal (Razia) are still in Pakistan. His children: Akbar (Ayasha) has an air cargo company in Amsterdam, Holland and is a Dutch citizen, Kalsoom (Mrs. Asad Ali) has just finished BS statistics in Dublin, Ireland, married to a surgeon, and Kaukab (Mrs. Hafeez R. Khan) is a Montessori Teacher married to a Banker planning to migrate to Houston, Texas or LA, Ca. where he has family.

MARRIAGE:

Zia Ur Rehman Khan and Mary Jo Ann Lemon were married three times.

7 Jun 1965 at San Francisco, San Francisco Co., CA

28 Oct 1967 at Rifle, Garfield Co., CO (Lic. Out - Mesa County)

18 Nov 1967 at San Francisco, San Francisco Co., CA (Lic. Out - Contra Costa Co.)

Zia's student visa status was in the 18 month segment allowed after graduation that all foreign students are legally allowed under the terms of their U.S. student visa. If they leave the U.S. during this period of time, the student visa is immediately terminated. To re-enter on any visa except a tourist visa or another student visa, one must apply for a green card. The procedure takes several years to obtain the card as you have country preference and number rotation to proceed through. By marrying a U.S. citizen, this red tape is cut. A green card is generally achieved in a matter of months. So that Zia could re-enter, we went to San Francisco and got married. He went directly to the airport and off to India to settle his father's estate.

However, there was one problem that he hadn't mentioned to Mary Jo. Mr. Zia's marriage had been informally arranged by his mother at age 7. Therefore, Zia had to soften up his mama and find a proper groom for his intended bride who was a first cousin. He conducted a groom search and after 15 months found a satisfactory candidate. The bride was a psychologist so when a medical doctor came calling that was tall and had a satisfactory demeanor, Zia pursued him further. I call this "The Bug Under Glass Stage of the Marriage Negotiation." Financial Statements are reviewed, families are medically researched, and candidates call socially for a lot of tea parties while everyone gets better acquainted with the candidates. The prospective groom finally fully passed muster and the formal business arrangements were finalized. The dowry decided, terms of divorce set up etc. This little procedure took another six months to finalize. Then came the wedding which took about two months to complete. During this period there is a party about every night, with traditional dancing and feasts for the poor and ancestors and on and on. Finally the knot is tied and another two months is allowed. During this period if either party wants out of the marriage for whatever reason, an exit can be negotiated without penalty to either party. After that period is quite another story. They didn't want out, so Zia had completed his obligation after 23 months.

There were still details to be taken care of for his father's estate and his mother's future living arrangements had to be determined so all that took another few months. My patience was wearing out on this man since he hadn't told me anything about "the problem" and I advised the gentleman of my annoyance with the situation. He got himself on this side of the globe post haste and brought mama with him. I'm an only daughter and my parents had proper wedding ideas so I didn't rain on their wedding parade. Therefore, we had Ma and Pa Lemon's idea of a "proper formal wedding." Moslem rights of inheritance are very intertwined with a proper Moslem marriage so his mother was bent out of shape that her son's children would not be properly recognized under Moslem law. O.K. so we had a "Proper Moslem Ceremony" in San Francisco where the "proper facilities" were available for the occasion. Mosque, priest, etc. Now both sets of parents had been satisfied and we were free to lead our life.

WRONG. The green card application entails an FBI investigation. The green card application carried #1 marriage. However, the FBI investigation picked up #2 and #3. The typist in the Marriage Bureau of the State Archives had made some typographical errors so the FBI was firmly convinced that I was a bigamist and a bride for hire. The marriage was a sham in pursuit of U.S. Dollars. I think everybody I've known since the age of 1 was interviewed relative to the sincerity of our marriage intentions. I'd hear about these interviews from time to time, but that was it. One day in San Francisco, three FBI Agents and three S.F. Cops came swarming to our apartment. The lead agent was a fat fellow that looked like Mickey Mouse, chewed on a cigar and generally conducted himself like "Boss Hog" on the Dukes of Hazard. He handcuffed me to the chair and read me my Miranda Rights. Zia came home at this point and was escorted into another room, handcuffed and advised of his rights. This herd of bums went through the clothes closets, drawers, rattled the landlord's cage for rent ledgers and my bank account for payoff deposits, confiscated what cash we had and generally had a fine time while they were there.

Mickey Mouse blew smelly cigar smoke, chewed on the tobacco tars and spit them on the rug, grabbed my bouffant hairdo and wanted to know how much Zia had paid me to marry him? Zero. Are you sure? Yes. This went on for two hours. I was getting madder by the minute. I finally told the fat slob that I'd live with Mr. Khan in a tent in some desert in Tim Buck Too if that's what it took and they could keep their green card. However, while I was parked there I'd nail his ass to the wall like they put Jesus on the cross and in my opinion he should be well sprayed with battery acid starting with his eyes and family crown jewels. They finally allowed me my one phone call and that was to the Immigration Attorney that we'd used. By the time he presented himself, they had finally decided that we were for real. They unlocked the handcuffs, made no apologies for their conduct or any attempt to straighten up the mess they'd created in the middle of the floor where they'd dumped everything we owned in their search for documentation.

The green card came very shortly and was delivered by none other than Mickey Mouse along with a notarized letter stating the disposition of their investigation with eight different investigation case numbers and his business card for future reference if we ever had a problem getting a security clearance or bonding for jobs. The next week the California Pakistani Marriage Mill Story broke. Some 5,000 poor U.S. women had married Pakistani and eastern men for a $10,000 fee. They'd live together a little while and quick as the green card arrived file for divorce. Then the whole procedure would start over again. I guess I was lucky that I was neither poor, uneducated, unemployed, had a police record, and was convincing that I intended to live with the man. Five years later while in India, we discovered that they had afterwards had the Embassy in New Delhi check in Meerut if there really was an estate and if Zia Khan really was the executor. They also hunted up the 1st cousin in Canada and verified the above story with her.

BIOGRAPHY:

Zia ur Rehman Khan was a child in trouble from the day that he was born but he just would not accommodate the grim reaper. He was allergic to milk. They finally determined that he'd tolerate Horlicks Malted Milk mixed with water instead of milk. However, he soon feel victim to dysentery and it was thought that he'd not survive. He did but thought that it was normal to have a twisting feeling in the tummy after eating until he came to this country for a college education. At three he got an eye infection. The consulted doctor prescribed medication. When the eye didn't improve, his parents took him to another doctor who determined that the wrong medication had been prescribed by doctor no. 1. It was his thought that the kid was probably blinded by the error in medication as the surface of the eye was burned. The eye was bandaged and the right medication used for two weeks. After uncovering the eye, it was determined that he'd not completely been blinded by the burns, but had permanently lost some sight and the eye was permanently scarred.

At fourteen began both a medical horror story and an intelligently aided natural healing success story that causes quite a stir amongst the medical professionals when they review the x-rays of his back which show a beautiful vertebra fusion engineered by nature. Whether the direct cause of his back problem was malnutrition which resulted in insufficient calcium for proper adolescent bone development, bone T.B. or exactly what is unknown since there were many diagnoses. Zia and a bunch of kids were pushing a disabled automobile. Afterwards he developed a severe back pain which x-rays showed to be a crushed disk. He was placed on a flat surface with the legs pulled up so that there was no tension on the back and given pain medication while the doctors decided what to do with him. One doctor would not listen to the parents that the kid was eating well and dictated what Zia was to have daily and in what proportion if the kid would take that much. The diet was calcium and vitamin rich and was accompanied with three tablespoons of fish oil daily. Mega doses of oral vitamins and calcium were also administered. In a month they again x-rayed the back and could see slight calcification lines beginning to form. Abscesses were also forming on each side of the spine that would have to be drained. A plaster cast duplicating the proper spinal curve was developed and changed frequently as the kid grew. Zia had the privilege of laying on the cast for three years. He grew two feet to 6'2" in height and his weight dropped to 90 pounds. His leg muscles shriveled up. He graduated from high school with the aid of tutors and his back developed a beautiful fusion of two vertebra just above the waist line to the delight of the doctors. It only happened because childhood bone closure had not been completed when the problem happened, he was given an excess of calcium which needed a place to go, and he was born into a family that could handle the financial burden and the new drug streptomycin was available to control infection. As an adult he painfully started to play golf and can now do anything he wants to and is pain free.

The abscess pockets were drained daily by a doctor who came to the house. However, in the end, the outer skin area would not heal. The medical doctors' opinion was that they never would so just cover up the surface so that it didn't become infected. An herbalist was consulted who prescribed quite a collection of herbs to be administered orally. After a month of taking the herbs, the herbalist showed up with a heavy salve of herbs much to the annoyance of the MD. The MD, however, had to agree that the oral herbs had maybe improved the three-inch wounds as they appeared better. After six months, the back surface sores were healed and the MD and the herbalist set up practice.

A masseuse had been showing up 3 times a day to massage the muscles so that they didn't completely atrophy while he was laying in the cast. At least the massages kept crystals from forming in the muscles even though they did shrink up seriously. When the fusion was formed properly, the masseuse started stretching the legs out straight and after three months, got them to where he might be able to stand up. For a year Zia could stand or lay, but did not sit so as not to put stress on the new fusion. He went to some college classes at Meerut College. When he could no longer stand, he went home and the balance of the professors conducted his class at home for a fee. It got to where there were as many students in Zia's room at home as there were at the college classroom. He finally got into sitting and was quite careful about what and how he did. He achieved a college degree at Meerut College in Economics and Statistics and life was about normal again after five years. A doctor in Denver, Colo., put him through strengthening exercises and regularly playing golf finally made him normal as an adult.

He spent all of his illness at home. His mother told me that they had three qualified nurses for round- the-clock care, three servants - 1 for cleaning his room, 1 to run any errands his nurse might need, and one to cover absences of the other two. She built a special bathroom and made them all bath before she'd turn them into his room. She personally boiled in the three foot iron wash pot their clothing and handed it out to them. A doctor came daily to oversee the case, a second doctor came daily to drain and dress the abscesses and six tutors flew in and out daily. Six strong men were hired as porters for carrying Zia's stretcher. A servant was hired for running errands to the library for books, a masseuse came three times a day for muscle therapy. A driver was hired for driving his grandfather about to get what he needed to keep the kid entertained. All told she had a staff of 22 just for him and about the same for running the rest of the house and the other four children.

Her father-in-law, who was a retired criminal lawyer, was in charge of keeping Zia's academic endeavors on track. Regular school was held from 7 am until 1 pm which coincided with Zia's peers. Mr. Khan arranged for rickshaws to fetch a group of ten kids daily from school to the Khan home where they'd all have lunch with Zia on the veranda and then discuss and debate a different subject every day. Religion (Islam) and then comparative religion, world geography, poetry and art. Outside lecturers were engaged. The other kids left 5:30 to 6:00 pm just in time for evening prayers.

Mr. Khan got the cast supported by a board and had poles extended so that four matched height men could safely move the stretcher around to the hospital for x-rays and out to the veranda for a change of scene. Pegs were installed under the arms so there was no possibility of Zia sliding down when the top was elevated a bit. A good tight blanket wrapped around the body helped to minimize any downward slide when his head was elevated about 18 inches. Mr. Khan rigged up a series of wide mirrors so that Zia could observe the horse races going on at the race track at the bottom of the hill while the other kids stood at the edge of the balcony. He arranged for the horse exercise and walking trail to come to the edge of the Khan landscaped grounds so that the kids could be educated into the markings of good race horses, but he never allowed betting. All of the jockeys were served tea and I'm sure that Mr. Khan handed out rupees as they left. Classical musical groups, gypsy dancers, snake charmers and belly dancers all performed on the Khan lawn and veranda. When the circus came to town, some of it came to perform on the Khan lawn. Zia Khan didn't have an opportunity for depression because he had a full life going on around him in which he was actively participating even though he was laying in a cast 24 hours a day.

Despite a difficult beginning, Zia did get on with a normal and productive life. After finishing at Meerut College in India, Zia went to Cambridge in England to school. His father wanted him to stay in Europe for graduate work, but he wanted to come to the U.S. His father advised him that he was in a position to pay "X" dollars a year which was enough for the tuition. Zia had a variety of part-time jobs. Accounting assistant with a power company and automobile dealership, hospital orderly, math tutor, limousine driver and taxi driver.

He was pretty thrifty with his money, but when Yellow Cab decided to raise money for the payment of their back income tax bill by franchising a few of their Taxi Cab Permits to independent drivers, Zia threw caution to the wind. A New York City Banker advanced him $20,000.00 and held the twenty permits until repayment had been effected. His Uncle, Gilbert A. Kay, had been living in New York City for a long time and was acquainted with where and how to get things done there. He arranged with a small, family-owned garage for the mechanical repair on this fleet. Parking is very expensive in the inner city anywhere, so Zia decided to keep these taxi cabs busy on a 24 hour basis and would then not require any parking facilities. There were a lot of students that needed part-time work so he rented out the cab on four hour shifts and used the street as his parking lot by double parking long enough to trade drivers. Table four at the Columbia University Library became his office. Zia was paid a set fee for the use of the equipment and anything above that the driver kept. There was some type of coded locking device on the equipment that precluded the engine starting without the proper key and code so theft and deceit were both thwarted. When he was ready to leave New York City, he leased out on long-term leases the permits. Seventeen of those original leases are still in place and they keep the units going round the clock. He's had those permits so long now that I guess they will best be used as retirement income.

Another of his early college money makers was the purchasing and leasing of overhead signboard locations. He'd find a spot that had good visual access, sign a lease with the owner of the building or lot, put up the board structure and then lease the blank space out. Sometimes he'd buy only a few feet of land in some parking lot. During school breaks he'd go all over the country looking for these type spots. By the time he got married he had 600 sign board locations. These were easy to administer because he used metal in structuring and whoever leased the spot had to repaint the whole surface to spec. Occasionally you'd have to sand blast the paint down to metal again, but most of the time the lease was a long-term lease so there wasn't a lot of paint build-up that would eventually start peeling. It was about like the paint on a car. The biggest pain with sign locations is keeping the property tax bills straight. Again we might just as well keep them now until retirement.

Zia started Power-X, a small business in Stockton that specialized in custom built engine-generator sets. These small units provided back-up power when the conventional power supply failed. Every building built after 1950 in the State of California requires a generator set to power their elevators, all hospitals, and many banks that have large computer operations require back-up power. In the Middle East where there is no conventional power supply system in place, they are used to power whole cities and Sheikdoms. These units were larger and many times installed in tandem to elevate the KW total output from the power station. Saudi Arabia, Iran, Egypt and Turkey were primary markets abroad. Domestically covered California and Nevada.

When Zia started going to the Middle East, the only equipment these clients wanted was U.S. made Caterpillar. However, when the U.S. Government put into place a temporary trade embargo about 1980 they inflicted more damage to their own citizenry than they did their targets. Granted the U.S. Government showed the world that they could flex their business muscle. However, they nearly bankrupted the Caterpillar large engine division and did bankrupt the Cummins large engine division. Both of these companies had several million dollar contracts ready for shipment. The equipment wasn't on board an ocean going vessel the day the embargo fell out of the sky and went into effect so they were unable to collect on the Irrevocable Letter of Credit put up by the client. U.S. technical exports permanently suffered because the embargo forced the reeducation of a very dedicated, single minded Middle Eastern client who never again would rely on U.S. technology alone. It gave the Japanese exports quite a boost because all of the voids that the U.S. embargo created were happily filled by the Japanese. The Japanese Government offered their homeland companies all kinds of support in the form of 90 day financing free of interest, no domestic taxes on export contracts over five million dollars, and reduced freight costs if they used the Japanese shipping companies. With that kind of support how can you fail.

This two paragraph ad which appeared in a Department of Commerce publication further defines Zia's endeavors. "Engineering, Financing and Marketing of various type of Electrical Power Generating Systems. Feasibility Study for a cogeneration system consisting of a 34 Megawatt Power Plant and an eleven million gallon per day Desalination Plant. Feasibility Study and Preliminary Design for various well-head power generating projects. Engineering and design of cogeneration plants using methane (digester gas) gas recovered from municipal sewer treatment plant digesters. Domestic and international marketing of Power Generating and Desalination Plants.

Technical and economic analysis of desalination technologies with emphasis on the usage of low temperature waste heat captured from fossil fueled power plants, oil refineries and other industrial units. In depth study of desalination processes including: Multiple Effect (MV), Multistage Flash (MSF), Mechanical Vapor Compression (MVC), Thermo-compression (TC), and Reverse Osmosis (RO). Development of Mini-refinery, Combustion Turbine, Diesel Engine and Desalination compound cycle technology. Detailed study and investigation of State-of-the-art emerging desalination technologies. Technology selection based on efficiency, operation/maintenance and economic advantage with special emphasis given to the usage of low-temperature heat recovered from the industrial processes.

The 1995 restructuring of the National Power Grids and the Clean Air and Ecology Acts passed by the Clinton Administration have necessitated the closing of many large electric power plants in the United States. These plants cost millions of dollars to build and have a projected fifty year operational life span. Under these ax closure acts, there were many plants that had only been in operation a few years. There were at least twenty that were two years old and were standby plants so had only a few months of actual running time on their meters. A million dollars got the plant and the disassembly accomplished and included freight to the port. Many third World countries could use this junked equipment and be happy to have it. Zia has been busy placing these plants in new settings in Bangladesh, India, Mexico and South America. Columbia just recently privatized their power plants under a U.S. Aid program in an effort to provide their farmer population in the hills with something besides cocaine for cash income. It will be interesting to see if it stems cocaine exports or not. ("John Lincoln Conger," 1 Oct 1996, by Mary Jo Khan)

MARRIAGE: Lemon- Lawson Wedding Is Told.

Rifle, [CO] -- Miss Nancy Ruth Lawson and Walter Benjamin Lemon III exchanged marriage vows in a double-ring ceremony at the First Christian Church in Rifle, Sunday afternoon, December 27. The new Mrs. Lemon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lawson, of Rifle. She is a graduate of Rifle High School, and attended Mesa College for two years. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Lemon, Jr., also of Rifle. He graduated from Rifle High School, attended Colorado State University at Fort Collins, and is presently enrolled in Northwestern State College of Louisiana in Natchitoches, La. Both of the newlyweds plan to continue their schooling in the Louisiana College. Mrs. O. B. Duckworth at the organ played wedding music and accompanied Byron M. Leach of Sanford, Florida, uncle of the groom, who sang. The bride chose a floor-length gown with a Chantilly lace bodice and a full skirt of bombazine with a square-cornered wateau train edged in lace. Her veil of white silk net was loaned by her aunt, Mrs. M.J. Mullenax, and was held by a tiara trimmed with pearls and sequins. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley arranged around a handkerchief carried by her mother and three of her aunts at their weddings. Maid of honor, Miss Mary Jo Lemon of Denver, sister of the groom, wore a floor-length dress of red chiffon over taffeta. A headdress of red net and ribbon completed her costume. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white carnations and green ribbon. Bridesmaids, Miss Rebecca Dawson and Miss Carol Davis of New Castle, wore dresses of green chiffon over taffeta fashioned like that of the maid of honor. Their head dresses were fashioned of green net and ribbon, and carried old-fashioned bouquets of white carnations and red ribbon. Candlelighters were Elizabeth Mullenax of Denver, and Marla Dawson of New Castle. James Robert Lemon, brother of the groom, was best man and Steven and Kenneth Leach of Sanford, Florida, were ringbearers. Ushers were David Lawson, brother of the bride, Paul Davis of New Castle, and Arthur Stiles of Natchitoches, La. A reception was held in the church dining room.

BIOGRAPHY:

"Bennie" Lemon was Master Councilor of the Order of DeMolay, Rifle Chapter and President of the Future Farmers of America while at Rifle Union High School, Rifle, Colorado. He played trumpet in the school band and was a popular student as he was lively, liked to dance and was an affable natured man.

Bennie held a part-time job throughout most of his college years. Mostly he was a fry cook in short order joints where one full meal a day was thrown in as part of the salary package. Pancakes, hamburgers and chili were his specialty. He still does a lot of the cooking at home since Nancy doesn't like to cook.

After college graduation, the thrust of his early career was personnel, occupational safety and contract negotiations. Remington Rand was an ammunition company with a branch factory in Minden, Louisiana. Having been reared on a farm, mechanical safety and safety procedures in general were a high priority with him. The company was running three full shifts to accommodate the ammunition demand of the Vietnam War, and didn't see employee work place safety as a priority. Bennie had found other employment, but the last week of his tenure with them was his worst nightmare come true. He was the company messenger to the family when a fatal explosion occurred that could have been avoided.

He went through K-Mart's Senior Management In-Store Training which would have eventually led to a Store Manager Position and was assigned as Assistant Manager of a store in Denver. However, K-Mart shortly at the Corporate Level had a change in policy that all top management would be moved quite frequently (at least once a year). His children were becoming school aged and he didn't want to move them that frequently so he changed jobs.

Affirmative Action was legislated and was a demanding issue with large companies. They had to comply and do so quickly. Managers for the purpose of overseeing their transition and compliance with the new law were being hired. He spent some five years with Abex and Sparton implementing these programs.

The job was done and he was bored so he tried accounting for a while with a large firm in Denver. He achieved a CPA qualification. College accounting classes and the real application of that knowledge are two different things. He didn't like the long hours, being cooped up and having to stay in one spot for long periods of time since he is a high-strung type with lots of nervous energy. His wife was missing mama so they moved to Grand Junction. Mesa College was growing rapidly and was established by the state as a four-year school instead of a large Jr. College. He spent a couple of years at the college reorganizing the Personnel Office to comply with Civil Service Requirements, and developed OSHA and COSH compliance programs.

He accepted interim employment with the Mesa County School District Maintenance Department and found that they had a good retirement package and working hours that would allow him to pursue other things. He got a General Contractors License and opened Lemon Construction, a small construction company that specializes in small home remodeling jobs. He is a State of Colorado Licensed Asbestos Inspector and his company is a certified Asbestos Removal Company. He holds a patent on an arms-length removal procedure that minimizes workers' exposure while removing asbestos from buildings. All forms of asbestos are now classified as carcinogen and are being removed from every building built between 1940 and 1985. There is plenty of work available. His children are about on their own. He plans to buy out his Public Employees Retirement Package now and proceed to other things until retirement, the details of which I've not been given. He spends a lot of time with the Lyons Club and has been the City-wide Treasurer for several years.

The Lemon family home was two story. There was no such thing as central heat and air in 1940. When you built a house, you figured out the local wind patterns and placed your house so that you got the wind benefit in the summer at which time you simply opened the windows for ventilation. Walter had put screens on the windows and had a workman making a better fit on one. At age two when Bennie didn't want to do what Mama wanted, he just went in the other direction at top speed. On one of these occasions he did just that and fell out the second story window where the workman had the screen off for repair. There was a big silver lace vine beneath the window. The workman came back around the house just in time to see the kid fall head first out the window, hit the spongy vine entanglement, slide down the vine like a slide and land in the rocky driveway where he was rendered unconscious. The Dr. was called and the kid was left as is until the Dr. arrived in about twenty minutes. Upon examination it appeared that he was OK except for being unconscious. In about two hours he came around and apparently had no ill effects.

Another occasion put him in the Medical Guinness Book of Records. The lord truly does take care of babes and fools. Bennie at about age four got into a kid argument with MJ at the Lemon Grandparents' home over water coloring. After the battle, the water coloring equipment was put up for the day. Bennie's "scratches" were disinfected and he was assumed to be none the worse for wear except for his scratch which was located close to the eye. The "scratch" healed and time passed. Bennie was about thirty when he began to require glasses. An irritating bump began to appear where the support knobs on the glasses rested on the nose. The bump got worse and was assumed to be a cyst or boil of some type. The doctor lanced it and sent him home. The spot healed and on went the glasses only to have the problem reappear several times. The last time the doctor used a different instrument to lance the spot and thought he felt something strange and probed the wound a bit. What he pulled out was an inch and a half length of wood. Bennie was sure that his eyeball was coming out also. Watercolor brushes back then had wooden handles and the tip of one of these in the fury of argument had gotten broken off and was fortunately lodged in the right spot to preserve sight. No ill effects have been apparent. The doctor entered his find in the Medical Guinness Book of Records. The wood had been there for 26 years.

BIOGRAPHY:

The winter of 1946-1947 was an unusually heavy snow year. Many cattle were lost simply because they got snowed under or couldn't navigate to the feed point. The state supplied helicopters to make hay drops, but wouldn't pick up sick kids. Schools were out for long periods of time. The snow in the low country was still around by mid June it was so deep. You could just barely see the yellow top of the 48 passenger school bus over the road banks. That is about 22 feet.

In March 1947 during one of these blizzard periods, James Robert got the flu bug. He needed medical attention, but it took a week using heavy earth moving equipment to get the road dug out enough for one lane traffic. During this period, Jim's cold was fast becoming a severe ear infection. The ear nose and throat specialist consulted decided that there was only one option that would save the kid. That was to remove the mastoid bone behind the ear for access to the ear mechanism and provide proper drainage of the entire ear. The hearing would be lost in the process. Today, 1996, they give antibiotics which usually clears up the situation. Penicillin had just come onto the market, but was still classified as an experimental drug by the FDA. It was approved for public use the day Jim had this surgery. Had it not been available for him, he probably would have died.

New Years is an evening of noise and noise maker toys in this country. There was one noise maker which was quite popular with the kids. It was a 14 inch rolled up tube of colored paper on which there was a wooden whistle attached at the end of the tube. Blow on the whistle and the gaily colored paper unrolled and the whistle made racket. Jim drew air backwards on the thing and dislodged the whistle mechanism which, of course, went down his gullet. They could not get the whistle dislodged, but by using the Heimlech Maneuver did get it to move enough to allow a little passage of air which was apparent by the whistling sound as he breathed. It was decided to take him to Grand Junction to the hospital. About five miles into the trip the whistling stopped and the kid was literally going limp and getting no oxygen. The good lord took a turn at stirring the pot.

The road out from Holmes Mesa to Interstate 70 is a bit of a serpent's trail. It had not had any sand spread out for traction yet and was slick as glass. Walter went around a turn, the car skidded and landed off the road in a rock pile with a big thud. The force of the impact caused Jim to gasp and momentarily relax just enough to dislodge the whistle and allow it to slide further down the tube past the lung air intake area.

Walter had had to get the car key from his mother. Ben and Mary knew how slick those roads could get, so they hitched up the trusty old haysled and a double team of horses and followed along behind just in case some such mishaps occurred. They'd been quick about their getaway so were not far behind. Chains were hooked to and around the old Buick and the tin lissy was pulled off the high center rock pile and back onto the road. The car was still functioning so on they went. They had been delayed only about ten minutes. The doctor was at the Grand Valley Bridge. Dean Mahaffey had a lantern already lighted and there for light. When Dr. Moore found the kid getting air and determined that his mechanical equipment wasn't going to be necessary, all transferred to the Mahaffey car and made the 45 minute trip to Grand Junction. X-rays at the hospital indicated that the whistle was in the tummy by now so a laxative was administered and the wait began. The diminished oxygen supply apparently wasn't long enough in duration to do any brain damage.

Despite his hearing disability, Jim was a good student. In the fourth grade he had a teacher of marginal talent and when he was assigned to the same quality teacher in the fifth grade a change was in order. Roberta's Mother, Grace Morgan, was also a teacher. She retired from the Louisiana Public School System and promptly went to Texas and taught for another five years retiring at age 71. Jim went to Deweyville, Texas, and spent the fifth grade there. By the time he got back to Colorado he was a good strong student again and was spared a lot of academic pain thanks to his Grandmother, the Deweyville School System and his great aunt, Mrs. Ferguson who was his sixth grade teacher upon return to Colorado. The first day of school he raised his hand and inquired what he should call her. "Mrs. Ferguson" young man. Nobody knew until the end of school that she was his great aunt. She said she pushed that young man "harder than anybody had before or since and he always rose to the "A" standard.

James Robert Lemon of Rifle/Grand Valley/Parachute should not be confused with James Robert Lemon of Vernal/Moab, Utah. James Robert of Moab married a Carma Lovell Smith of Moab, Feb. 1961, in Grand Junction, Colo. He is a few years older than our James Robert. (Vernal and Moab are just over the Colorado border and people from that area of Utah usually conduct much of their business in Grand Junction, Colo. since it is the biggest place in the area.)

Utah James wrote bad checks all over Western Colorado for which he did a little prison time, and created quite a problem for our James Robert. Our James finally gave up having a checking account in his name because he was always having to go to court to prove to Utah James's bill collectors that they'd attached the wrong man's account. He woke up one morning to tow trucks hauling away a new pickup, a flat bed truck and two nearly new automobiles from his yard. The writ of attachment was for a $38,000 debt that Utah James had defaulted on. Our Jim's conveyances were clear titled. The lawyer collecting on Utah James's debt had not done his homework and just honed in for judgment on "James Robert Lemon" since these type of folks changes addresses frequently. Our Jim sued them and collected $20,000.00 in damages from the lawyer for his negligent behavior.

As far as I can determine, there is no family relationship between the two Lemon families.

Some Lemon property is adjacent to the Colorado River in the Rulison area. Since 1931 a Lemon has been paying property taxes on the land as theirs. The property has been surveyed twice and property lines established as correct. About ten years ago, Jim decided to harvest the abundance of gravel that is on one of the islands (called so only because at certain periods of the year the Colorado River backs up into the low lying areas of the lower part of the property). When he applied for permits etc., he really opened a can of worms.

There was one eagle that had nested for years on that island. There were other folks farther down the River that had the same situation so they joined in and a legal suit was filed against the U.S. Government. The Government determined that the Lemon's did not own the land after all and that they had made an error in 1870 when they had originally given title to the wetlands to Mr. Graves who sold it to Mr. Lemon. The Lemons would have to prove their ownership. . The Government was not counting on the record keeping of either Mr. Graves or Mr. Lemon, Sr. Graves had saved the public offering as published in the Denver Post and Grand Junction Sentinel. He had saved all of his correspondence relative to the purchase and had all of the stamped tax receipts from the Garfield County Tax Office. When Lemon bought the property, he handed it over to Lemon, Sr. and he continued the practice.

The ownership was determined to be Lemon by the Supreme Court last year partially on the strength of that original documentation. The Eagle can continue to nest there and the gravel on the other end of the island can be used for a comfortable income for several years to come.

Jim has quite a temper. He was riding a half-broken horse. He got cocky with the horse when it didn't obey his command immediately and abused the horse. The horse broke into a fast gallop when he got kicked in the ribs and again didn't obey when the reins were pulled. The barbed wire fence came up and the horse ran into it at full speed. The fence was new and tight so it acted as a spring board for the horse. However, Jim went right on over the fence and landed in a rock pile. His full face hit the horse's head which was coming up as he was going over its head. His entire face was shattered and his jaws broken. They x-rayed him and wired him back together to heal. They used plastic surgery techniques and loosened the flesh from the bones through the mouth. To look at him he has no scars, but I believe his back does still bother him. Fortunately, with age his hot temper has mellowed.

MARRIAGE:

Lemon-Henson - Grand Valley - Miss Judy Ann Henson and James Robert Lemon exchanged wedding promises in a double-ring ceremony at Durango. The couple will be at home on a ranch near Grand Valley, following a wedding trip to Mexico. Marriage rites were at 5 p.m. April 25 in Christ The King Lutheran Church with the Rev. Don Simonton of Vail officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Henson of Santa Fe, N.M. The grooms' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Lemon, Jr. of Grand Valley. The new Mrs. Lemon is a graduate of Novato High School, Novato, California. She attended Eastern Oregon College, LaGrande, Ore., and now is attending Fort Lewis College, Durango. Lemon was graduated from Rifle Union High School, attended Western State College in Gunnison and now attends Fort Lewis College. Both are biological science majors. Satin peau de sois formed the bride's floor-length A-line gown, styled with long sleeves, a scooped neckline and empire waistline. Pearled alencon lace medallions were scattered over the gown. A watteau train was attached. Her three-tier chapel veil of illusion was held by a flower and petal headpiece trimmed with pearls. She carried white and blue roses. Mrs. Gary L. Powell of Pagosa Springs served as her sister's matron of honor. Another sister, Miss Laurie Ann Henson of Santa Fe, N.M., and Mrs. Zia R. Khan of Stockton, Ca., sister of the groom, served as bridesmaids. All had identical gowns of peacock blue chiffon over taffeta and carried daisies. Walter B. Lemon III of Denver was his brother's best man, with Zia R. Khan and Samuel B. Potter of Rifle as ushers. The church was decorated with baskets of gladioli and daisies at the altar and tiers of blue candles. A reception in the Silver Spur followed the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. Bert J. Harrison, Mrs. Marianne Windsor, and Mrs. Edwin R. Henson, grandmother of the bride.

Springfield, MO. There he lettered in football and grew toward manhood.

He enrolled at Ozark Bible College in Joplin, MO, in the fall of 1974, obtaining both his degree and wife, Marsha Louise Mountcastle, those events coming in 1979 and 1978, respectively.

Next they lived in Johnson City, TN where Mark pursued a degree at Emmanuel School of Religion. He also joined the National Guard as chaplain for the nearby Guard unit.

In 1987, Mark gained an active duty tour in Korea, where he served a year as an Armored company platoon leader and Executive Officer. For this service he won the esteemed Army Commendation Medal. Upon his return from Korea, Mark joined the local National Guard unit, an Artillery Battery. Next he obtained a job as a National Guard administrator at Manhattan, KS, rejoining an Armored unit, his first love. Mark was assigned to command a Guard tank company, which became one of the National Guard's best and received his second Army Commendation Medal.

Later Mark was awarded a third Army Commendation Medal, to go with two Army Achievement Medals. As of 1996, he had been promoted to Major and reassigned to Division Headquarters at Fort Leavenworth, KS.

BIOGRAPHY:

Diana Lynn Stevens came quickly. Her father took Helen to the Army Hospital in Augsburg, Germany on 16 Jan 1959. He then returned home to take care of Mark who was with a neighbor. Tom relates, "About the time I walked in the door, the phone rang. A nurse at the hospital told me I was the father of a red-headed baby girl."

Diana met Scott Russell Pixler at Ozark Bible College in Joplin, MO, from which they both graduated. They were married in Columbia, MO on 16 Aug 1980. They had a summer internship in Australia and returned there for missionary work immediately after school.

Diana also earned her elementary teaching certificate from Pittsburg State University at Pittsburg, KS.

When her family moved to Lincoln, NE, Diana took a position as Christian Education Director for their church and held the job for two years until she resigned to give more time to the family.

RECOLLECTIONS: Congers Keeping Walking Stick Tradition Alive by Glennis Nagel
Some children are born with a silver spoon in their mouths, but Andrew Ival Conger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ival Conger, Newark, Ohio, was born June 12, [1970 at Newark, Licking Co., OH] with a walking stick in his hand.

Of course, no one expects Andy to walk with the stick. The walking stick hasn't been used as a walking stick in more than 105 years. The walking stick is a part of Conger tradition.

"In the last 105 years, at least, it hasn't been used as walking stick, but it has been handed down through the family," Andy's grandfather, Robert Conger, 802 W. 27th St., said.

Through the years, the walking stick has been handed down from oldest son to oldest son.

Although Mr. Conger doesn't know how far back the tradition goes, he said, "I think that you may assume this was made in the early 1800's."

"A lot of the story is probably folklore, but the story is that the walking stick was made for one of my great grandfathers by Joseph Tibbles, who was called Uncle Joe," Mr. Conger said. "It was made with the stipulation that it was to go to the oldest son in each generation." However, the tradition was in danger of dying out.

"My father, Finis, was the oldest of eight boys. Out of eight boys, there were only four boys born and I was one of those boys. And from those four, there was only one boy, my son Ival, and he was born 27 years ago," Mr. Conger explained.

"My oldest brother had two daughters, so I got the cane because I did have a son. Of the Congers, there is only my brother, my son, and now my grandson left. Nowhere in the United States is there any more of our family line except us," he said.

Just which great grandfather the walking stick was made for Mr. Conger doesn't know. It could have been made for Finis' father, Sigel, or Sigel's father, Elias, or for Elias' father, Enos.

Whoever it was made for, Uncle Joe reputedly was very particular.

"It is a hickory stick. He hunted all over the woods until he found the branch he wanted, then he tied it. And in two or three years he returned to it, and it had grown straight by that time." Mr. Conger said.

"After he had cut it, he threw it up in the barn and left it for a year. After that

John Conger Jr

year was up, he went and got it. He peeled the bark off of it and threw it up there for another year.

"The next year he began to whittle. The walking stick was carved into four separate segments with each segment made in the form of a different tool handle: a hammer, ax, adz and mall." he said. "Once each of the handles was carved, the wood was smoothed with a piece of broken glass. There was no sandpaper in those days. "

"Some people say I should redo it, sand it and refinish it, but I think it should be handed down in its original form," Mr. Conger said.

In keeping with the tradition of handing down the walking stick, Mr. Conger has made an old fashioned baby cradle for each of his four daughters and his son. The cradles are to be handed down from generation to generation.

"I made the first one for our son's wife, Almeda. Hers is made of walnut and the others are of cherry wood. We had hoped that the first baby would be a boy," Mr. Conger said.

However, the first two grandchildren to use the walnut cradle were girls, Sherry, who will be four years old this fall, and Tammy, a year and a half old.

To encourage his daughter-in-law to provide the Conger family with a son to carry on the family name, Mr. Conger offered her a $100 bill and a gold plated baby cradle.

"Knowing her blowing it twice, I didn't think I'd have to make one," he said with a smile. "I haven't figured out how I'll gold plate it yet."

The Congers left for Newark, Ohio, this week to take the walking stick and $100 to the new arrival.

RESIDENCES: Jun 1996, 43714 Saddlehorn Drive, Elizabeth, Elbert Co., CO, working in Denver, CO

BIOGRAPHY:

Benjie was an exchange student to Japan in the eighth grade. He discovered that the Japanese students work a lot harder than U.S. students. Benjie was still a good student but was drifting in the direction of less commitment. His trip to Japan turned this around very quickly. Benjie was a star basketball player at Palisade High School. He had hopes of going to college on an athletic scholarship which he did receive. After starting at the Kansas school from whence it came, he found out that he wasn't the star of the show. The only thing that the Athletic Dept. had in mind was basketball at any price and hang the education business which wasn't his order of priorities. He dumped school and became a roofer for the balance of the year. In the fall he went to Colorado State University at Fort Collins without a scholarship and adjusted to the real world. He started out with the idea of veterinary medicine, but along the way changed his thrust to "Animal Science." After graduating from College, Benjie took the first job offered which was with Syntex Animal Health headquartered in Des Moines, Iowa. His territory extended from Bakersfield, Ca., to the Canadian Border and as far east as the Utah Border. He wasn't too happy with the job, but the U.S. economy was down and many new college graduates couldn't find work in or out of their field of education so he felt fortunate to be employed. Benjie and Laurie had neither one been away from home and family for very long before coming to California and never "found their niche in California." At the end of three years when Benjie found he wasn't going to be President of the company with his first promotion, they packed up and returned to Colorado where they lived for two years with her parents in Conifer. Upon return to Colorado, he was for a time employed with the State Brand Office in Denver and is now with the Colorado Feeders Association in Denver.

In late 1994 he bought a country home with a small acreage on Saddlehorn Drive, Elizabeth, Colorado, where he has a miniature arena and race track for horse training. He has been doing a lot of calf roping in local rodeos and has placed enough times that he must now decide whether he wants to go professional or not. In 1994 he went to the National Finals and ended up second four times when he roped five steers all in the eight second time frame. I think he's hit every rodeo from No. Texas to the Canadian Border. I haven't heard his decision about the professional status in his calf roping. ("John Lincoln Conger," 1 Oct 1996, by Mary Jo Khan)

MARRIAGE:

Miss Davina Gay Lemon and Terry Lee Brower exchanged marriage vows in a double-ring ceremony held at 2 P.M., Saturday, April 27, 1990, at the Grace Baptist Church in Clifton, Colorado. The Reverend Michael Rossmann officiating.

The new Mrs. Brower is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Benjamin Lemon, III of Palisade and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Lemon, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lawson, Sr. of Rifle, Colo. The groom is the son of Jack Brower of Missoula, Montana, and Mrs. Bonnie Sovold of Grand Junction, Colorado. His Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heath of Grand Junction, Colo. and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brower and Bernice Lorenzen of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Mr. and Mrs. Brower are both 1987 graduates of Palisade High School. The newlyweds are making their home in Orem, Utah, where both are employed.

Mrs. Mary Lou Manning at the piano played wedding music and accompanied Bonnie Sovold, mother of the groom who sang "The Wind Beneath My Wings." The bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father and was given in marriage by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Benjamin Lemon, III, of Palisade. . The bride wore a floor-length gown with a chantilly lace bodice and a full skirt of bombazine which had a square-cornered wateau train edged with lace. A pearl and sequin tiara secured a finger-tip illusion veil. The wedding dress was first worn by her mother, Nancy Ruth Lawson Lemon for her December 27, 1964, marriage to Walter Benjamin Lemon, III, in Rifle, Colorado. The bride carried a silk bouquet of chrysanthemums, lily-of-the-valley and white roses arranged around a handkerchief carried by her maternal grandmother, Ruth Stayton Lawson at her August 24, 1943, wedding to William David Lawson in Denver, Colo. A good-luck coin was presented to the bride by her elder brother Walter Benjamin "Benjie" Lemon, IV, and his wife "Laurie", who had been married just three months earlier in Golden, Colo. Candles of Hope were lighted on the Alter by the Mothers of the couple.

The Maid of Honor, Miss Donna Reed of Palisade wore a dress fashioned with a full skirt and elbow- length puffed sleeves. The color of her dress picked up the azure blue of the cummerbunds worn by the groom's party. She carried a silk bouquet similar to that of the bride. Mr. Brian Brower of Orem, Utah, served as his friend's Best Man. Candlelighter's and Ushers were Matthew James Lemon of Palisade, younger brother of the bride, and Shane Alberts, younger brother of the groom.

A reception was held in Clifton at the Veterans Hall. The square, three-tiered wedding cake carried out the pale blue and white color theme of the celebration and was made and decorated by Helen Gonzales, an old friend of the family from Rifle, Colorado, who had made and decorated all of the wedding cakes for the Lemon Uncles and Aunts. Assisting were "Laurie" Scherschel Lemon at the Punch Table and Helen Gonzales at the Cake Table. Shirley Lane Lawson served mints.

The Rehearsal Dinner was hosted by the Groom's parents Bonnie Savold and Jack Brower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heath, the groom's grandparents in Clifton. Out-of-town guests included:
